25-YEAR RECORD IN UNITED STATES

6,728,048 Persons Strike, and 716,231 Locked Out.

1894 Most Notable for Numbers Thrown Out of Work.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—The industries of the United States suffered less from strikes during 1905 than in any year since 1892, if the number of employes thrown out of work by strikes and the duration of the strikes be taken as a measure. According to the twenty-first annual report of the bureau of labor of the Department of Commerce and Labor, in 1905 there were 221,626 employes thrown out by 1,76,357 strikers, in 8,292 establishments, and lasting an average of 25 days in each establishment involved, of work by 2,077 strikes undertaken.

The report in part says: "The year 1894 stands out in the history of the country as the year most notable for the great number of workers thrown out of work by strikes, over 660,000 employes being thrown out of work by 1,549 strikes, undertaken by 505,-049 strikers, in 8,196 establishments, and lasting an average of 32 days in each establishment involved."

Statistics from 1881 to 1905 show that strikes in the United States numbered 36,757, and lockouts 1,546.

The total number of persons who went out on strike during the 25 years was 6,728,048, and those locked out numbered 716,231. The dependence of one occupation upon another in the same establishment swells the aggregate of employes affected during the period to 9,529,454.

The average duration of strikes for each establishment was 25 days, and of lockouts 84 days.

The greatest number of strikes in any one industry was in the building trades, which had over 26 per cent of strikes and 38 per cent of all the establishments involved in strikes.

"The importance of the part that organized labor plays in strikes," the report says, "is indicated by the fact that of the total number of strikes in 25 years practically 69 per cent were ordered by labor organizations. Employes who struck succeeded oftener than they failed, and employers were similarly successful in lockouts. Employes succeeded in winning all the demands for which the strikes were undertaken in 48 per cent of the establishments, succeeded partly in over 15 per cent, and in only 36 per cent of the establishments did they fail entirely to win any of their demands."

Lockouts resulted wholly in favor of employers in over 57 per cent of the establishments involved, succeeded partly in 11 per cent, and failed entirely in 32 per cent. Strikes ordered by labor organizations were wholly successful in practically 50 per cent of the establishments involved, partly successful in almost 16 per cent, and failed entirely in only 35 per cent of the establishments.

During the quarter century period mentioned 41 per cent of all strikes were undertaken for increase of wages alone, or in combination with other causes; over 23 per cent wholly or partially by disputes concerning the recognition of union and union rules; practically 12 per cent caused by reduction in wages; almost 10 per cent were to enforce demands for a reduction of hours, and only a little less than 4 per cent were sympathetic.

Strikes for increase of wages were more successful than those for any other cause. Strikes concerning recognition of union and union rules entirely failed in 43 per cent of the establishments involved, and sympathetic strikes, the most unsuccessful of all, entirely failed in 79 per cent of the establishments involved.

During 1901-1905 6 per cent of all strikes and 12 per cent of all lockouts were settled by joint agreement, and less than 2 per cent of the strikes and a little over 2 per cent of the lockouts were settled by arbitration.

ENTITLED TO USE LETTERS.

Suit of Whistler's Sister-in-Law Settled in Favor of Pennells.

LONDON, July 24.—The question of the publication of certain information contained in the private letters of the late James McNeil Whistler, by Joseph Pennell, Mrs. Joseph Pennell and William Heinemann, the London publisher, in a biography of Whistler now being written by the Pennells, was settled today, when the court to which the matter had been presented decided that the Pennells were entitled to make use of the information in question.

The Pennells claimed that Mr. Whistler frequently expressed the desire that they write his life, saying, further, that he was willing to place all the material he had at their disposal. Objection to this was raised by Miss R. H. Phillip, a sister-in-law of the late artist, who, as executrix of his estate, brought suit to restrain the Pennells. Miss Phillip declared she was authorized to make a selection from the letters to be published only after the lapse of a number of years, and that time had not yet arrived.

"AIN'T HE CUTE?"

London Cartoonist's Version of Venezuela's Refusal to Pay Debts.

LONDON, July 24.—A cartoon in Punch is attracting much attention from those persons who are of the belief that the United States is responsible morally for the action of Venezuela in refusing to pay debts that have been passed upon as just by The Hague conference. It portrays the South American republic in the shape of a monkey perched on a tree, holding in its hand a satchel. The tree is labelled "Monroe Doctrine." Standing between the tree are Uncle Sam and a British boy, the latter pointing up at the monkey and saying: "Please, sir, yam monkey has taken my bag."

"That's so," replies the genial and smiling Uncle Sam; "ain't he cute?"

SALUTES AND VISITS.

Japanese Cruisers Greet and Are Greeted by Americans at Brest.

BREST, July 24.—Japanese cruisers Tsukuba and Chitose, under the command of Vice Admiral Sir Goro Ijuin, arrived here today. While entering, the visiting vessels saluted the forts with 21 guns, and as they swung round to drop anchor near American cruisers Washington and Tennessee, the Tennessee, flagship of Rear Admiral Charles H. Stockton, saluted the Japanese division with 15 guns. This salute was returned gun for gun. The American warships saluted first, because the rank of Rear Admiral Stockton is one grade below that of Vice Admiral Ijuin.

Immediately after the exchange of salutes the Japanese naval attache at Paris, Captain Moryama, boarded the Tsukuba and conferred with Vice Admiral Ijuin. About half an hour later the Japanese Vice Admiral and his staff left the Tsukuba and came ashore on a round of official visits. They were received by Vice Admiral Pellaty of the French navy, surrounded by his aides, in the red saloon of the maritime prefecture. The exchanges were cordial. Later the visitors called up the mayor and civil authorities of Brest. The crews of the Japanese cruisers are to be kept on board until further orders, and the American bluejackets also have been denied shore leave. Rear Admiral Stockton explains that this restriction is customary on the day before warships leave port.

The officers of both squadrons attended an elaborate reception, followed by dancing given by the naval authorities in the garden of the maritime prefecture. The garden and building were handsomely decorated with flowers and the flags of France, Japan and the United States. Bands played on the terraces and, inside, orchestras played from the galleries. The American and Japanese officers mingled on the most friendly terms, and the best of good nature prevailed.

Vice Admiral Ijuin and his staff will leave here for Paris tonight. They will be escorted by Lieutenant Chamberlain of the French navy.

The American cruisers are to sail tomorrow.

TO GREET JAPANESE OFFICERS.

President and Madame Fallieres Going to Paris from Rambouillet.

PARIS, July 24.—President and Madame Fallieres are coming into the city from Rambouillet tomorrow, to greet Vice Admiral Ijuin and other Japanese officers, who are coming up from Brest. The visitors will be given a luncheon at the Elysee palace.

PLAN PRESENTED TO NEW EMPEROR.

Korean Cabinet Meets Under Japanese Guard.

Revolutionary Proposals Cause Consternation at Court.

SEOUL, July 24.—It is understood that the proposals of Japan with which Viscount Hayashi was charged were presented by Marquis Ito to the Korean cabinet, which met at 10 o'clock this morning under a Japanese guard. The meeting was held in the temporary quarters of the minister of agriculture, in the Japanese section of the city. The ministers deliberated until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when Premier Iwan Yung, together with the minister of war, presented the new plan of government of state to the emperor in the palace, returning to the cabinet meeting within two hours.

It is understood that the Japanese proposals, though they do not molest the security of the throne, are revolutionary, and the fact that the audience of the cabinet members with the emperor was brief is believed to be evidence of the consternation of the court.

Wholesale arrests of subordinates leaving the palace began at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the object being to intercept possible communications from the former emperor which might throw light on alleged plots.

Many agitators from the provinces are arriving here. The yare not permitted to assemble in the city, and therefore are meeting in suburban towns, where 100 soldiers were yesterday detailed to disperse them.

On account of the prevailing heat, drought and disquiet, the financial archives of the government and also the correspondence of the various government departments have been removed to the Japanese city, to insure their safety from destruction by fire.

A message from Chemulpo states that Japanese war vessels Kasagi, Niitaka and Tatshima arrived there from Gensan at 9 o'clock this morning with many bluejackets and provincial troops on board. The troops will proceed to Seoul.

BEHIND CLOSED DOORS.

Kohean Ministry Holding a Secret Meeting at Seoul.

TOKIO, July 24.—According to a despatch received here from Seoul this morning, Marquis Ito received a long message yesterday from the imperial government in this city, and opened negotiations with the Korean government last evening. The Korean ministry is now holding a meeting with closed doors.

Marquis Ito's official newspaper expresses satisfaction with the views of some of the foreign papers regarding the situation in Korea, but says it is surprised at the impression, which appears to prevail abroad, that Japan has taken action in Korea, insisting that Japan has not done so.

PROVIDENCE, July 24.—Dr. John C. Budlong, a descendant of one of the oldest families of Rhode Island, and well known in this state, died this morning of Bright's disease, after a protracted illness. Dr. Budlong had to give up active practice almost a year ago.

Dr. Budlong, a descendant of Francis Budlong, whose entire family, with the exception of the youngest boy, a lad of four years, was massacred by the Indians in King Philip's war, was born in Cranston. He was a veteran of the Civil war, and was the first one to hold the office of surgeon general of Rhode Island, which office he kept for 20 years.

SHOULDER AND ARM TORN AWAY

Man Killed at Fort Terry Received Full Charge of Powder.

FORT TERRY, Plum Island, N. Y., July 23.—By the premature explosion of a blank charge of one of the six-inch rifled guns at Battery Bradford, this post, today, Private George Hammond of the One Hundredth Company, coast artillery, was killed and four others were injured, one man seriously. The injured are: Sergeant Benjamin W. Banks, who may lose the sight of both eyes, and Private Hayes, both of the One Hundredth company; John McHugh and Joseph McHugh, brothers, who are privates, burned on the face. The two last-named men are members of Company K, Third infantry, Connecticut National Guard, whose homes are in Bridgeport.

Hammond received the full charge of ignited powder, tearing away his shoulder and arm. His home is in Talbot, Penn. Sergeant Banks is in the hospital. The others injured are in their quarters, suffering severely.

Battery Bradford is situated on the east end of Plum Island, and consists of six-inch rifled guns mounted on disappearing carriages. The men, under the direction of Lieutenant Joseph Meyers, were engaged in repelling an imaginary enemy. It is believed that the blank charge was placed in the opened breech, and that a burning ember, which lay there unnoticed, ignited the powder.

Several companies of the coast artillery of the regular establishment, with a portion of the Third infantry, Connecticut National Guard, are stationed here for the maneuvres that have been taking place for several days.

BLACKMAIL SCHEME REVEALED.

Killing of New York Armenian Shows Existence of Secret Band.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Through the murder of H. S. Tavshanjian, the wealthy Armenian rug merchant, yesterday by Bedros Hampartzoomian, the police have come into possession of evidence of the existence of a band of blackmailers who have operated on an extensive scale, and may have obtained a clue which will result in the arrest of the murderers of Father Kasper Vartanian, the former Providence, R. I., priest whose dismembered body was found in a trunk some months ago.

A report came to the attention of Assistant District Attorney Hanley, who is conducting the investigation into the Tavshanjian case, that the rug merchant was one of 10 wealthy Armenians who had been marked for slaughter if they failed to give $10,000 each to a blackmailing band of their countrymen. No color was given to this theory by Hampartzoomian when he was arraigned today. In court he maintained a stolid indifference, waived examination and was remanded to the coroner.

From other sources kept carefully secret by the authorities came information of a startling character and said to be accurate. This is to the effect that a secret society of Armenians, originally organized for what the members held to be patriotic, though revolutionary, purposes, had degenerated into an instrument for blackmail. The organization had branches in other cities, but recently many of these branches had disbanded, while the better element withdrew all connection with the society.

The killing of Tavshanjian and the others, it was stated, was planned more than a year ago. They received letters which they interpreted as meaning that they must pay or take the consequences. The threatened men discussed the matter at a meeting arranged to decide what they should do. Tavshanjian was present. A number of the merchants were in favor of acceding to the demands.

"Better give them money and live," they said.

"No," said Tavshanjian "it's a matter of principle we should not pay. You can do as you will. They will get nothing from me."

Among the interesting things which the district attorney's office learned today was that a complaint had been made to the police regarding Father Martoogesian, pastor of the Armenian Apostolic Church, at Seventh avenue and Thirty-ninth street. The complaint was made in September, 1905, and to Police Commissioner McAdoo. It was charged that Father Martoogesian was quite active in soliciting funds for the Armenian cause among the small merchants, such as rug peddlers, cigarette makers and the like. Detectives were put on his trail, but all they could learn after watching for six months was that he spent a great part of his time around the various Armenian restaurants. Nothing was discovered to show that he was doing anything illegal.

Soon after the killing of Tavshanjian Monday many wealthy Armenian merchants declared that the central office and the district attorney's office had been notified of the threats which had been sent to the Armenian business men, and of the fact that Father Martoogesian had called on the recipients of these letters soon after the letters arrived and had asked questions about them.

The threatening letters will be offered as evidence when Hampartzoomian's case goes before the grand jury. Both Acting District Attorney Smyth and Mr. Hanley admitted tonight that they were in hopes of making other arrests, and that they were convinced that Hampartzoomian was only a dupe who had acted at the suggestion of others. At the arraignment of the murderer before Coroner Harburger today the interpreter was directed to inform the murderer that he did not have to answer questions and that anything he might say would be used against him. To the interpreter Hampartzoomian said he wished to make only one statement. He made it, and here it is:

"I am ready and willing to receive what is due me. Whatever I have done I have done for the sake of my country, and I am ready to die for my country. This is the last statement that I will ever make."

BALLOON GRAZES CHURCH SPIRE.

American Balloonists Have Narrow Escape in Crossing Chartres.

PARIS, July 23.—Allan R. Hawley, who will take part in the international balloon race to be held at St. Louis October 1 next, and Charles Leeds, another well known aeronaut, had a narrow escape from death tonight while crossing Chartres in their balloon.

They were traveling 30 miles an hour at a low altitude when the cathedral appeared dead ahead in the semi-darkness. The men threw out their ballast with the greatest possible speed and the balloon shot up rapidly, grazing the great spire.

The trip was continued for several hours and the aeronauts landed finally near the sea.

ENGLAND RETRACTS PROPOSAL.

Withdraws Definition of Warship and Policy Tantamount to Privateering.

THE HAGUE, July 23.—At a special sitting of the committee on sea warfare of the peace conference today the British delegation withdrew their proposition regarding the definition of a warship, as it appeared that instead of facilitating an understanding of the regulations for transforming merchantmen into warships it complicated matters.

The British delegation also abandoned their proposition already opposed by General Porter, according to which the commander of a belligerent warship was allowed to capture and destroy merchantmen suspected of provisioning the enemy. It had been observed that such a measure was tantamount to the re-establishment of privateering.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

Mrs. Timothy P. Durfee of the Tea House, Glen street, celebrated her birthday Monday afternoon by entertaining a large party and serving a picnic dinner. The table, set under a large tree on the lawn, had many beautiful flowers to decorate it and many good things to satisfy the appetites of the 50 who, comfortably seated about the table, partook of them with evident enjoyment. Mrs. Durfee received numerous presents, including a sum of money. Among the guests from out of town were, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Ackley of Fall River, Miss Lily Cook of Bristol, Miss Hattie Munro of Dighton, Mrs. John Rogers, Mrs. Winfield S. Slocum, Mrs. Parker L. Thurston, Mrs. Charles E. Chase, Mr. Frank Chase and Mrs. Juliette Vars of Newport.

Miss Maloy is guest of Mrs. Tobin.

Dalton Thurston, son of Mr. Edward W. Thurston, while helping his father at haying last week, stuck a pitchfork in his foot and some hours after became seriously ill. The physician called could not positively determine whether his illness was not in part caused by the excessive heat of the day, as well as by the wound in the foot. He is somewhat better.

Mrs. Charles G. Clarke, with her two children who has been spending a month with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Anthony, has returned home and is entertaining Miss King of Newport.

Miss Edna Malone has returned from Warren, where she has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. William Roberts.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Anthony spent Sunday in East Providence.

There are a number of cases of measles in the north part of the town.

Miss Ruth Lawton of Providence is visiting her niece, Mrs. Warren R. Sherman.

The army worms have appeared, but not as yet in great numbers, although some fields of oats are quite badly eaten and the owners have had them mowed to save them.

The accident to Miss Susan Ann Anthony, who is about 80 years old, though still active, occurred from a miscalculation in riding into the barn on a load of hay she struck her forehead, and then struck the back of her head as the team was backed out, the shock throwing her off upon some railroad ties beside the barn.

The picnic of the scholars of St. Mary's Sunday School and their friends will be held on the Parsonage lawn Thursday.

Messrs. Fred and Harry Porter of New Jersey are guests of Mrs. Ella C. Fish.

Mrs. Harvey Macomber and her daughter Nellie have returned from a visit to Holyoke, Mass.

Mrs. Christiana Sisson is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Edward Cory in Tiverton.

Contractor Harrington has Mr. Woodman Chase's house nearly ready for the masons.

Mrs. Hannah Caswell, who has been ill for some time, had a paralytic shock Monday.

Owing to the phenomenal success that has attended the tests of the Krupp-Petrie, the French minister of war has asked the budget commission for a credit of $1,000,000, the greater part of which, it is understood, will be devoted to the construction of dirigible balloons of the Petrie type.

OUR PRESIDENTS.

ZACHARY TAYLOR.

The twelfth president of the United States was born in Orange county, Va., in 1784. He grew up in Kentucky. He was an officer in the United States army from 1808 until his election to the presidency in 1848 as the Whig candidate. General Taylor's election was due to the reputation he won in the Mexican war, from which he returned with a remarkable series of victories to his credit. He was known to his men as "Old Rough and Ready." President Taylor died in office after serving sixteen months. During his brief occupancy of the presidential office the opposing party had a plurality in congress. President Taylor's fame rests chiefly upon his military career, culminating with his great victory at Buena Vista.

AGAINST "COMMON ENEMY.

Venezuela Suggests Proclamation of Drago Doctrine by All Spanish-America.

CARACAS, Venezuela, July 23.—Suggesting that the Spanish-American republics meet in a Congress, to themselves approve and proclaim the Drago doctrine, now that the powers have ignored it at The Hague, a correspondent of the official government newspaper, El Constitucional, in a presumably inspired article sounds the note for a "union against the common enemy; against the ambition and egoism of the strongest."

This article has caused much comment in Caracas, because it is published on the day following the presentation by Minister Russell of Secretary Root's second note to Venezuela, in which he says that President Castro's refusal of the demand presented by the American government in March, for the arbitration of five American claims, is unacceptable, and again insists on a satisfactory consideration of the claims presented.

Lamenting that on admitting the Spanish-American republics to the peace conference their interests and inspirations were not considered, and laying the blame for this on "the egoism of the great powers," the correspondent of El Constitucional says:

"The Drago doctrine can become a real and tangible fact. It will be sufficient if a Spanish-American congress be celebrated in Buenos Ayres, Mexico City or Caracas and if all these nations assist and approve and proclaim this doctrine as the general law of these peoples in their relations with the foreign nations. It does not matter whether these latter approve it or not, because all the powers combined could not fight an entire continent—why not attempt it. If the most influential presidents of these republics launch the letter of convocation this congress would result in a triumph."

NEW YORK RECOUNT HALTED.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The appellate division of the supreme court in Brooklyn this afternoon granted a stay of proceedings in the mayoralty recount matter, pending a decision of the court of appeals on the constitutionality of the recount bill. Application for the stay was made by counsel for Mayor McClellan.

POMONA BRINGS 32 SURVIVORS.

Rescued Crew Tell Story of Hero Captain and Brave Comrades.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 23.—Steamer Pomona, with flag at half-mast, brought in today 31 survivors of the crew of wrecked steamer Columbia and one of the passengers, a Mrs. Ottile Lideldi, a music teacher of this city. Ninety-seven men, women and children are on the death roll of the Columbia. Of those 75 were cabin passengers, nine steerage, and 14 officers and seamen. One life raft and five lifeboats are still unaccounted for, and it is possible when these are heard from that the number of dead will be lowered. The chances of hearing from the missing boats, however, are slim, as the sea was running high and the lifeboats were probably swamped in the confusion, and drifted away. The list of survivors now include 160 names out of a reported total of 257 persons on board. Three bodies have been recovered.

The captain of the Columbia proved himself a hero, and his brave death was worthy of all the best traditions of the sea. A waiter of the steamer said he saw him on the bridge at the instant the steamer made the fatal plunge, and the commander in a firm tone, and with no sign of fear, said just before he disappeared: "Well, boys, I did all I could for you, and I can do no more. She's a goner. Goodbye."

When the sailors and engine room men of the Columbia stepped from the Pomona today the burden of their story was the heroism of their comrades who went down to death in order to save the lives of others. Of the passengers, these men said the bravest was 16-year-old Maybelle Watson of Berkeley, who refused to be taken aboard the lifeboat until her companion, whose head she had kept above the water, had been rescued. Then for several hours, while the other woman was delirious, Miss Watson held blankets about her and cheered her. All the sailors praise the courage of the women who helped to bale out the boats and made no outcry except one, who cried continually because her little boy had been lost.

All the sailors praise Captain Doran. "There he stood," said one, "just one man alone on the bridge, pointing off at the boats and shouting something. I jumped off the rail and swam away from the wreck. I looked back, and there was the captain still giving orders, without any apparent thought of quitting the bridge."

The cool head of Second Steward A. Marks of the Columbia saved many lives when the Columbia sank. As soon as the ship struck, the steward ran into the "glory hole," where his men slept, and ordered them to their posts. The men were well drilled, and they wasted no time in awakening the passengers. They ran through the cabins assigned to them, dragging the people out of bed and adjusting their life preservers for them. This accounts for the fact that all those who were on deck had life preservers on them. When the waiters were about half through their work on the starboard side the vessel gave a heavy list, and those who still remained in their staterooms on that side of the boat were doomed. The vessel filled to the deck, and the doors of their cabins were jammed so that they were unable to break themselves free before the vessel up-ended and dived to the bottom. The starboard deck was filled with half-dressed persons when the fatal list came. Those who were already on the deck were able to climb to the port side and cling there until the last plunge was made. The vessel went down without a noticeable suction, but the passengers found that they were unable to remain on the surface of the water, although buoyed up by the life preservers. Many assert that they sank as deep as 30 feet before they began to rise.

WANTED TO HANG HAYWOOD.

Murder of Steunenberg Part of Pinkerton Detective Agency's Plot.

BOISE, Idaho, July 23.—Forsaking the theory of vengeance as Orchard's motive for the murder of former Governor Steunenberg, E. F. Richardson, Haywood's chief counsel, today argued that Orchard was in the employ of the Pinkerton Detective Agency when he killed Steunenberg, and that the murder was a part of a conspiracy to hang Haywood.

This sudden departure was followed by a tremendous denunciation of Captain James McParland and the Pinkertons and passionate vituperation of Orchard, Governor Gooding of Idaho, Senator Borah, Governor Peabody of Colorado, and, in fact, all who have acted on the side of the prosecution of Haywood, came in for a share of the avalanche of Richardson's peroration.

Mr. Richardson denounced and charged the Pinkerton Detective Agency with a systematic plot to secure the conviction of Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone, as a means to the desired extermination of the Western Federation of Miners.

SUED FOR $1,480,000.

Mississippi Claims $5,000 a Day for Violation of Law by Oil Trust.

TUPELO, Miss., July 23.—George E. Mitchell, prosecuting attorney for the First judicial district, filed suit for $1,480,000 in the Lee County circuit court today against the Standard Oil Company, charging violation of the Mississippi anti-trust laws.

If the suit is successful, the Standard Oil Company will not only be forced to pay the sum named, but will be obliged to change the company's organization or leave Mississippi.

The petition alleges that the Standard Oil Company has violated the law by owning stock of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company of Missouri, and also stock of the Union Tank Line Company.

The suit is for $5,000 penalty for each day the company has done business in Mississippi since the anti-trust law went into effect.

STANDARD LENGTH OF CUT.

Another Conference Between Manufacturers and Weavers Suggested.

FALL RIVER, July 23.—Secretary Whitehead of the Weavers' Union received a lengthy communication this afternoon from George H. Hills, president of the Manufacturer's Association, on the subject of the standard length of cut controversy. Last Wednesday the union voted to hold a special general meeting Thursday night next, to vote on the question of whether the weavers would go out next Monday, should the manufacturers in the meantime fail to concede the demands of the weavers that the standard length of a cut of print cloths should be fixed at 46 yards.

In his communication President Hill suggests that before any hasty action is taken another conference be held between the representatives of the union and the manufacturers, and if no agreement is reached the questions at issue be referred to a board of arbitration, each of the two interested parties to select three of the members, and said members to choose the seventh.

NO MONEY IN IT.

[Rhode Island Advertiser.]

"GOING—going—gone. The Pawtuxet Valley Daily Times is hereby sold to the highest bidder for $515."

This is the record bottom price for a Rhode Island daily newspaper plant, of late years at least. The Times was sold on Saturday, June 29th, the stock being bought for the R. L. Greene Paper Co., who had a claim for paper amounting to something over $600. The Times is still being issued, but just what is to become of it no one seems prepared to say. Opinion seems to have it that some deal will be fixed up so that the sheet will be run through the coming campaign at least.

A TIME DEVICE NECESSARY.

Battleships Should Be Provided With Regulator of Air Blast Ejectors on Big Guns.

That something must be done to regulate the shutting off of air blast ejectors which are used on the big guns for preventing flare-backs such as occurred on the Georgia last week, is the opinion expressed by ordnance officers in Washington. These blasts are turned on automatically, but are shut off by hand. It was the shutting off of the air blast that soon which caused the delayed flare-back on the Georgia. Until something has been done to regulate the time to be allotted an element of uncertainty is destined to prevail.

This feeling of uncertainty, it is stated, could be greatly minimized by specifying how long the air blasts are to remain in operation in order to always be on the safe side. Automatic devices to close the air blasts after a given period are also thought of at the bureau of ordnance. These could be regulated approximately, according to the velocity of the wind blowing into the muzzle of the guns.

One of the rules which are enforced in target practice is that even if only one gun is being fired the regulations governing that fire are the same as if every gun on the ship were being used. For this reason gunners make a practice of not wasting the air of the air blasts, for if all the guns were operating the air pumps might be overtaxed. Therefore, in the case of the Georgia, the gunners in following out this instruction not only shut off the air blasts too soon to gain time but also to save a waste of air.

The detailed report of the board which investigated the Georgia disaster has not yet been received at the Navy Department.

THE RISE IN THREAD.

[New York Tribune.]

It is now reported that the price of thread is getting ready to soar. Having long remained at the five-cent mark, spool cotton has already risen to six cents and threatens to shoot up to 10. The usual explanations are being adduced. The Thread Trust says that cotton and labor and spools all cost much more than they formerly did, while the small fry say that the trust can name its own prices, regardless of the cost of production, because American women have become slaves to the habit of using the trust brands and refuse all others. Independent manufacturers appearing on the thread market with a new label and new shape of spool receive only icy stares or suspicious glances from every feminine needle wielder, causing them sooner or later to withdraw from the field, sorrowfully convinced that the trust has hypnotized or bribed the entire gentler sex. This circumstance, we think, deserves more consideration than the mere increase in the cost of production.

Whatever may have been the historical conditions leading up to the present sad state of affairs, the assertion is boldly made that one firm has hypnotized some 30,000 American women into believing that nobody working outside the company's factory walls can possibly make common cotton thread fit for anything better than hasting. Having induced this abnormal and peculiar mental state, the firm proceeded to accumulate reserve funds big enough to make the United States Treasury look like the till of an ice cream soda dispensary in January. So far as has been established, this prosperity has been wrought by none of those nefarious methods which are the delight of muck rakers, but by the well established devices of advanced neurology. The women don't quite know why they insist upon having their pet brands. The thread is excellent, to be sure, but why might not another make be equally strong and smooth? The hypnotized have no answer.

PERSONALS.

....The tomb built for the body of Pope Leo XIII, was formally turned over to Cardinal Satolli Monday by the Archbishop of St. John Lateran. Eight cardinals were present. Cardinal Satolli made an address of thanks, in which he paid a glowing tribute to the late Pope.

....Major Eugene Coffin, paymaster, United States Army, who died at Manila yesterday was a wonderful saxophone player. John Philip Sousa once offered Major Coffin $150 a week to join his band. The major was a comrade of President McKinley and served in the Civil War.

....It is said that Harvard University has under consideration an invitation to Luis M. Drago, former minister of foreign affairs of the Argentine Republic and a member of the Argentine delegation to The Hague, to deliver a series of addresses before its students on international affairs. Senor Drago is the author of the so-called Drago doctrine, which is a protest against the use of armed force in the collection of international debts.

....Senator Beveridge of Indiana will be married by the British chaplain, I. H. Fry, at the flat of Mr. Spencer Eddy on Hohenzollern Strasse, Berlin, on or about August 1. The baptism of Mr. Eddy's recently born infant will take place at the same time and place. Before the wedding at Mr. Eddy's house there will be a formal civil marriage at the city registration office, in accordance with the German law.

....Mrs. Russell Sage has sent her check for $100,000 to Chancellor J. R. Day., as a gift to the Teachers' College of Syracuse University. This college occupies 14 acres of land adjoining the campus, which was the home of Mrs. Sage in her childhood. She has expressed a desire, for this reason, and her great interest in the property, that it shall be the permanent home of the Teachers' College and that women shall always be admitted to its privileges. Mrs. Sage is not making gifts to educational institutions at present, but makes Syracuse an exception because of the reasons given.

....Colonel Will S. Hays, the veteran river editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, song writer and poet, died here today of vertigo, caused by a stroke of paralysis suffered in the Iroquis Theatre fire in Chicago, December 30, 1903. He was 70 years of age. Colonel Hays always claimed the authorship of the original words of "DIXIE" and that he was responsible for the arrangement of the music. His version of "DIXIE" was written at the outbreak of the Civil war, but his words were considered so seditious that the writer was arrested and compelled to change it. By that time Dan Emmett, the minstrel, had written his song and his publisher had it copyrighted. Colonel Hays's most famous song was "Molly Darling," the sale of which reached 2,000,000 copies in Europe and America.

A Dressy Costume.

Double chiffon in a periwinkle blue shade makes an attractive colored costume. The very full skirt pleated into the waistband over a foundation of taffeta in a lighter shade of blue is elaborately trimmed with repousse lace flouncings and galloons with narrow ribbon in the blue shade. The trimming extends downward from the knees, and the drop skirt ruffle is frilled with many rows of the narrow blue ribbon, making a pretty foundation for the lace flouncing. The bodice is an elaborate affair of the chiffon and lace, with frillings of the narrow ribbon. The back of the bodice is quite as elaborate as the front, and back and front of the high girdle built in one with the waist are finished with large white pearl buttons, centered with knots of blue cord. The white lace hat has a band of blue satin around the edge, with trimmings of white ostrich and osprey, and with this costume is carried a sunshade of white taffetas, with printings of violets.

I WANT TO GO TO MORROW.

[Copyrighted, 1899, by Howley, Haviland & Co.; English copyright secured.]

I started on a journey just about a week ago,
For the little town of Morrow, in the state of Ohio;
I never was a traveler, and really didn't know
That Morrow had been ridiculed a century or so.
I went down to the depot for my ticket, and applied
For tips regarding Morrow, not expecting to be gyped;
Said I: "My friend, I want to go to Morrow and return
Not later than tomorrow, for I haven't time to burn."
Said he to me: "Now let me see if I have heard you right;
You want to go to Morrow and come back tomorrow night;
To go from here to Morrow and return is quite a way;
You should have gone to Morrow yesterday and back today.
For if you started yesterday to Morrow, don't you see,
You could have got to Morrow and returned today at 3;
The train that started yesterday, now understand me right,
Today it gets to Morrow and returns tomorrow night."
Said I: "My boy, it seems to me you're talking through your hat.
Is there a town named Morrow on your line, now tell me that?"
"There is," said he, "and take from me a quiet little tip,
To go from here to Morrow is a 14-hour trip.
The train that goes to Morrow leaves today 8:35,
Half after ten tomorrow is the time it should arrive;
Now if from here to Morrow is a 14-hour jump,
Can you go today to Morrow and come back today, you chump?"
Said I: "I want to go to Morrow; can I go today
And get to Morrow by tonight if there is no delay?"
"Well, well," said he, "explain to me and I've no more to say,
Can you go anywhere tomorrow and come back today?
For if today you get to Morrow, surely you'll agree
You should have started not today, but yesterday, you see;
So, if you start to Morrow, leaving here today, you flat,
You won't get in to Morrow till the day that follows that.
"Now if you start today to Morrow, it's a cinch you'll land
Tomorrow in to Morrow, not today, you understand;
For the train today to Morrow, if the schedule is right,
Will get you into Morrow by about tomorrow night."
Said I: "I guess you know it all, but kindly let me say,
How can I go to Morrow if I leave the town today?"
Said he: "You cannot go to Morrow any more today,
For the train that goes to Morrow is a mile upon its way."

Finale.

I was so disappointed I was mad enough to swear,
The train had gone to Morrow and had left me standing there;
The maxw as right in telling me I was a howling jay,
I didn't go to Morrow, so I guess I'll go today.

FANCIES.

I'm envious of my neighbors some,
Of course, I doesn' mean
Dem rich folks dat goes bouncin' past,

But when I sees de hawk a-sailin' in

I says, "I sho'ly wishes I could travel
dat way, too!"

I'd rather be a honey bee a hummin' of a song
Dan toilin' in a workshop or an office
all day long;
An' when it comes to fancy clothes to catch somebody's eye,
Dar ain' nuffin' in creation dat kin

When I sees dem neighbors livin'
'mongst de flowers all day long,
Each a-tendin' to his business, or a
singin' of a song,
Dey is strong in my affections, like a
neighbors ought to be;
But I can't help bein' jealous of 'em
some, 'twix' you an' me.

FEEDING THE BABY.
Always Consult a Physician Before Changing the Diet.

When baby is ill and does not seem to thrive on mother's milk or when the little one is to be weaned, consult a physician before deciding what food to use.

Unwise selection of a food for the baby is the cause of most of the illness that comes to the child.

Leading physicians prescribe Justfood, which is backed by years of reputation, more frequently than any other baby food, as it is physically the same as mother's milk, containing bone and tooth-forming material that build up bone and muscle, while the undesirable fattening elements that form the chief part of condensed milk and many foods are purposely kept out.

Do not think that Justfood babies are not plump, for they gain in weight and strength much more rapidly than the average, but their weight comes from good solid flesh and strong bones.

50c., $1.00, $1.50 (3 lbs.), at your druggist's. Liberal sample package sent free by mail. Justfood Co., 86 N. Franklin St., Syracuse, N. Y.

SUMMER DESSERTS.
Mixtures Packed in A Mold Ice and Salt and Frozen Without Mechanical Aid.

[Cornelia C. Bedford.]

Frozen desserts may be made of mixtures which are of an open, frothy texture, and frozen without mechanical aid. These are whipped and carefully mixed, turned into a mold and packed in ice and salt. They must stand from two to five hours, according to the size of the mold, that the mixture may be frozen through to the very centre. The ice is broken in pieces about two inches in size, the salt in coarse and equal quantities of the two are used.

Maple Mousse—Heat one cupful of rich maple syrup to the boiling point. Pour slowly over the well beaten yolks of eight eggs, stand in a pan of hot water at the side of the fire and whip steadily until the mixture is of the same texture as sponge cake batter. Change to a pan of cold water and continue to whip until cold. Whip one pint of heavy cream to a solid froth. Mix the two very lightly, sprinkling in one teaspoonful of vanilla. Turn into a mold with a tightly fitting cover, bind the edges with a two-inch strip of muslin dipped into melted lard or dripping, and bury the mold in a pail of ice and salt. Throw a heavy cover over the top and let it stand in the cellar or other cool place for at least four hours.

Coffee Mousse—To a pint of very heavy cream add a scant half cupful of strong, clear black coffee and three-quarters of a cupful of powdered sugar, stirring until the latter is dissolved. Soak one teaspoonful of granulated gelatine in two tablespoonfuls of cold water, stand over hot water until dissolved, then add to the prepared cream. As soon as the mixture shows signs of thickening begin to beat and continue until the whole mixture is a solid froth. Turn into a mold, cover, bind the edges with the prepared cloth and freeze.

Angel Pudding—Boil together one cupful of sugar and one half of a cupful of water until the syrup will spin a short thread when dropped from the tines of a fork. Have ready the stiffly whipped whites of two eggs. Pour the hot syrup in a fine stream over the whipped whites, beating steadily. Stand in a pan of cool water and continue to beat until cold, then add two teaspoonfuls of vanilla, two teaspoonfuls of sherry and one cupful and a half of heavy cream whipped to a solid froth. Pour into a mold with tightly fitting cover, bind the edges with the greased cloth and bury in ice and salt for fully four hours. When turned on the serving dish sprinkle with finely chopped candied fruits.

Fruit Mousse—Take one cupful of pulped berries, add the juice of half a lemon, three quarters of a cupful of powdered sugar and one tablespoonful of granulated gelatine soaked in a little cold water and dissolve over hot water. When the mixture begins to thicken add one pint of heavy cream and whip steadily until it is frothy through to the very bottom. Turn into a mold, cover, bind the edges and bury in ice and salt for several hours.

OFFICIAL PERQUISITES.

The Vice President of the United States and the Speaker of the House receive as souvenirs the elaborate inkstands which they have used officially. In some legislatures the presiding officers are allowed to take away the chairs or desks, or both, which they have used officially. Occasionally a privilege of this sort has been taken by the entire body. A few years ago an effort to break up this practice led to personal violence in the Minnesota legislature. Under the directions of the presiding officer the sergeant-at-arms undertook to defend the furniture, and members of the legislature wrenched their desks and chairs from the floor and loaded them into express wagons.

These practices were brought over from England. In Chambers Magazine Mr. H. MacDonagh says that at the close of every Parliament the Speaker carried off the chair as a souvenir. The practice no longer prevails, but the Speaker of the House of Commons has still some perquisites besides a comfortable compensation. His salary is $25,000 a year, free of income tax; he is provided with a residence, with "coal and candle", which apparently means fuel and lights, and he retires with a peerage and a pension of $20,000. Compared with that, we are pretty niggardly.

Besides all this, he receives $5,000 of equipment money when he is elected, which is to provide him with the robes and wig of office. For a long time it was customary to present every Speaker with silver service to the weight of 2,000 ounces, but one of the results of the reform movement in 1832 and the greater participation of the common people in the election of members of the House and in governmental affairs was a vote in 1829 that the service of plate should be permanently attached to the Speaker's official residence. Speakers no longer receive $500 a year for stationery and two hogsheads of claret but they still have a plump doe in December and a fat buck in July from the royal deer parks, and for 600 years Speakers have received every Christmas a present of four and a half yards of broadcloth which the country can produce.

The last-named custom began in an effort to boom the woolen business by inducing royalty and distinguished persons to wear domestic woolens. In a like spirit one English queen wore a coronation robe of silk raised in the American colonies, and mills near Hartford presented General Washington with material for a brown broadcloth suit. But one would suppose that the special encouragement of the British woolen industry might have been dispensed with a few centuries ago.

Our Speaker receives nothing resembling these perquisites. But in common with other members of Congress he has $125 a year for stationery and periodicals most of which he probably draws in cash; the greater part of the members do—and All Senators and Representatives obtain many small personal supplies through the contingent funds of their respective houses. Quinine pills and bay rum and many little things are thus provided. Nothing corresponding to the two hogsheads of claret is presented to any one in our government, but plenty of Apollinaris, lemonade and other "soft drinks" are kept on tap in warm weather for both Senators and Representatives. Spirits do not appear on the accounts of the contingent fund; they would undoubtedly look objectionable; and Congress recently forbade their being supplied at the Capitol restaurants. But it is no one's business what a man keeps in his committee room, especially if he paid for it himself.

The British lord chancellor has $50,000 a year and his retiring pension is half of that, and he is a partisan official changing with each ministry, while the Speaker holds his place though there may be revolutions in the political complexion of the house. The lord chancellor receives about $9,000 for equipment money, and four and a half yards of the best black broadcloth, like the Speaker. The lord chancellor also receives the old great seal whenever it is necessary to have a new one, and has every year the crimson velvet purse embroidered with gold which is carried before him as he enters and leaves the House of Lords or the court of chancery. It certainly is worth while to be a great official under the British government. The emoluments make those of our officials look like thirty cents.

THE GALVESTON IDEA IN DES MOINES.

The city of Des Moines has been passing through an experience similar to that which resulted in the adoption of a new city charter in Newport. The municipality has not been exactly misgoverned, in the sense of being managed in a scandalous or corrupt manner; but the people have not been satisfied with the work of the politicians and those whom the latter put in office. Of course these political workers and their followers objected strongly to a change in the form of the city government which promised to legislate them out of office and keep them out, but the citizens had reached the point where they decided that something must be done if the city was to advance as they desired that it should and be managed in the business-like manner which they favored. The matter was therefore placed before the voters for their action, the new form of administration proposed was adopted and the city has started upon what it is believed will be a new era of prosperity.

All this is much like the experience of Newport in our recent change of government, but there is a wide difference in the nature of the new administration. While this city went back to the old-fashioned town meeting idea of representation, Des Moines has gone to the other extreme and concentrated its government in the hands of a few, making five men responsible for the entire administration. This will be readily recognized of course as the Galveston idea, which was conceived and put into practice in that city as a matter largely of necessity, immediately after the partial destruction of the city by flood in 1900. Then, facing an emergency and requiring immediate and energetic action, it was decided, wisely, as it was afterward proved, to give the gigantic task of re-building the city and restoring prosperity to a small number of the most progressive and successful business men. The number was placed at five and so well was the choice made that these men made a remarkable record in the restoration of the municipality.

Since Galveston achieved such success with this concentrated form of government other cities in the state of Texas, and even outside of that commonwealth, have followed in her footsteps and adopted it with excellent results. So far as known, nowhere has it failed to work satisfactorily and great things are predicted from its use in all parts of the country. Des Moines, however, is the only Northern city which has yet tried the experiment, for it is recognized that it is still in that stage, though it has been in existence seven years in Galveston. There appears to be no good reason why it should not prove as successful in the North as in the South and the citizens of Des Moines are sanguine that it will prove the solution of their problem and bring them the increased prosperity they are seeking, at the same time freeing them from the domination of the politicians.

At the time Newport adopted her new city charter, which embodied the peculiar features of a large governing body and a small administrative board, wide attention was called to the strong contrast between the Newport and the Galveston ideas. So far as known no other city has followed the example of Newport and chosen the form of administration now in force here, and consequently the spread of the Galveston idea is a matter of particular interest to all who are interested in good government. There is no question that each form has brought excellent results where it has been tried and it is not impossible that both are desirable, that one form may be better adapted to a certain place than the other, or even that they might be adopted interchangeably with equal success. For after all the main thing is to change the public spirit and stir up a desire and purpose for good government, when half the battle has been won. It might almost be said that the other half is also won when the right kind of men are chosen for the administrative positions. At all events, these are the principal features of any reform movement, to awaken the people to the need of reform and a determination to have it, and then to give the government into the hands of men of business ability. Under such energy and uprightness. Under such conditions no movement for municipal betterment can fail, and without them none can succeed.

HUGHES WINS AGAIN.

There is at last a prospect of an agreement between the New York senate and assembly on a re-apportionment bill. Speaker Wadsworth surrendered suddenly yesterday, worn out by the long fight, and seeing at last that he would be unable to force the Senate to grant the concessions he wanted. On his advice the assembly Republican caucus agreed to accept the compromise offered by the senate, making that a party measure, which will assure its adoption.

This is another victory for Governor Hughes, as the Speaker's surrender and the house's agreement to the senate bill, are largely due to the governor's persistent stand that the demands of the constitution for a complete re-apportionment and the creation of fair and equitable districts be met. Speaker Wadsworth comes out of the contest badly crippled politically, receiving injuries which may not be repaired for years and which may lead to his own defeat for re-election, for a political leader loses friends with great rapidity when he is defeated.

The federal and state authorities are still in a clash over the enforcement of the North Carolina rate law in the Southern Railway case, with at present little prospect of a settlement. A representative of the United States Attorney General's office is in North Carolina, offering a proposition looking to a peaceful settlement of the points at issue, but Governor Glenn still absolutely refuses to accept the terms, saying that he will back the state officers with all his power. In the meantime the railroad company has become deficent of the state authorities, relying on the United States court, but after much persuasion has agreed to consider the government's proposition for peace. The matter is one which is likely to become historic.

Korea has been practically conquered by Japan. The people are said to be so utterly stunned by the course of recent events that they are apparently inclined to accept the abdication of the emperor as inevitable and make no further resistance. The imperial palace is in the hands of the Japanese guards, the friends of Marquis Ito pass in and out without hindrance and the Japanese appear to be completely in charge. More important victories are sometimes won in peace, more effectually and with less loss of life, than in war.

President Roosevelt has created a national forest reserve in Alaska. It contains 858,000 acres, lying along the coast of Prince William sound, south of the main divide of the Chugach mountains, and is to be known as the Chugach forest. As the reserve lies along the coast, announcement is made that application for the establishment of town sites and trading posts will receive prompt consideration.

The Ohio Republican at their convention next Saturday will endorse William H. Taft as the state's candidate for Presidential honors says the Ohio State Journal, and it is said that in many quarters it would occasion no surprise if the action were unanimous. This would mean a complete rout of the forces in the party under the leadership of Senator Foraker and Dick by the rank and file.

The New York state treasury will profit materially by the recent death of John Henry Smith, whose fortune was worth somewhere in the neighborhood of $40,000,000. The law provides for an inheritance tax of five per cent on direct heirs, and the tax on the estate will amount to nearly $2,000,000.

Mrs. Russell Sage is still giving away her husband's wealth, which he hoarded during his lifetime.

AMERICANS ABROAD.

[Booth Tarkington in Everybody's.]

One class of Americans to be met with in Europe appear to be increasing very rapidly; the class of the alienated, of those who say: "Shawly you never intend returning to the states to live! It's all very well to run back for a few weeks now and then to see one's friends—but living there? Oh, quite impossible!"

Perhaps this seems exaggerated. Perhaps it may be thought founded not on reality but upon a comic weekly. On the contrary; talk of the kind is exceedingly common in the American colonies on the Continent, and the people who say such things are those who usually manage to mention, in the course of any conversation you may have with them, that "dear Countess Blank was saying to them, only yesterdgy," and also that "Lord Feathersonhaugh," etc.

Such people see not only too much but too little in "the life over here," which life means to them a really interesting and thrilling struggle for what they believe to be "position" and "social recognition." However, their "climbing" upward through the Continental "foreign colonies" and out into native Continental society is more picturesque than most climbing at home, because upon the Continent it is more visible and conspicuous. The rungs of the ladder are sharply defined. And, of course, a climbing American finds his task much easier in a European city than he would find it in his own home town, since (so far as origin goes) all Americans look alike to most of the worldly people of Europe and are "taken up" for what they are worth—and not seldom taken in for all they are worth.

THE WOMAN OF TODAY.

[James Huneker in Everybody's.]

Twenty-five years ago blonde women (real blondes) were far from rare; a careless observer can see at the present that American women in pigmentation are becoming darker. Up in New England, out in certain parts of the West, the thin, nervous, palm-featured, earnest, underfed and overworked female was in the majority. Her voice reached us across picket fences, her hand was in every pie. Above all, she sang in church on Sundays! When Mr. James and Mr. Howells began to write of her she was already vanishing. Where has she gone? You encounter isolated specimens today; and her feminine contemporaries make mock of her queer bonnet and her puritan conscience.

Every decade is adding its quota of derangement of the normal national woman as we once saw her. What has become of this average American woman? Where is the waist of yesteryear? Women's hands and feet are larger; the skeletal formation is said to be bigger. They are not afraid of the winds that tan, the sun that freckles. They motor and golf; they swim, row, write. They play Chopin, despite all these things inimical to it! They stand the strain of college study, and there seems to be no marked diminution in the birth-rate. They are taller, broader of chest, and their eyes as soft as their mothers (for the happy chap, of course). Is there an American type. It would seem so, after these statements. Unluckily for the statistician, the same girl may be seen today in Germany, in England, Ireland, Scotland, France, Italy, Austria. Northern women are of splendid physique. The truth is that the feminine movement is world-wide.

AROUND RHODE ISLAND.

Fight Between Excursionists and Deck Hands on a Steamer.

Lost Their Jobs Because They Extended Their Circus Leave—The Woonsocket Postoffice Site.

A wild, free fight on steamer Warwick between Portuguese deck hands and members of an excursion party, shortly before midnight last night, resulted in a score or more of men being battered, about 200 camp stools thrown from the decks of the steamer into the harbor, and the arrest, when the steamer reached her dock in Providence of six young men, of the party which chartered the steamer for the evening. The objection of the deck hands of the Warwick to the party, which comprised the members of the Irving Colonial Club and their friends, about 500 in number, all told, to anyone dancing on the saloon deck, where the orchestra was playing is said to have started the fight which waged so fiercely from down below Fox Point to the slip near the Crawford Street bridge that the captain was obliged to blow the distress signal on the way up.

Because they took advantage of the generosity of Manager Malcom Campbell in shutting down the works so that the help could see the circus parade Monday morning 96 employes of the Machine and Press Company of Woonsocket were told yesterday morning when they reported for work that they could continue their vacation until Thursday. The shop was closed with the understanding that the men would return at 12:45, after the parade was over and after they had had lunch at noon. Those who were laid off yesterday morning did not do this and most of them went to the circus.

A despatch from Washington last night, conveyed the information, which is especially welcome to Postmaster John W. Cass and Rev. F. H. Spear of Woonsocket, that the Treasury Department has given its definite approval to the Main Street location for Woonsocket's new postoffice, known as the Methodist church site, and comprising the church property, the Ira B. Peck property and a part of the Allon B. Jillson homestead property. This land will be purchased at a cost of $35,000, and upon it will be put up a $75,000 federal building. According to plans heretofore informally agreed upon, but now sanctioned by the government, the United States will buy the property stated. The city will sell the Clinton schoolhouse lot to the Methodists, with some adjacent land, for their new church, and the city will extend Cato street into Clinton flats and build a new street through the flats and over Worrall street to Clinton street. After ten years of agitation and work Posmaster Cass has now been able to have the government formally obtain a postoffice site, and the clearing of the buildings to make way for the new site is merely a matter of time.

Plans are almost ready for contractors' figures for a new building for the Rhode Island Institute for the Deaf, corner of Hope and Cypress streets, Providence. The old mansion house, which was the original structure on the land, will be torn down and the new building built on the site. This old house has been used by the school for classrooms for some time, and a few years ago a two-tory brick addition was built, containing two classrooms and a hall. This brick addition will be left standing and will communicate with the new building. There will be four classrooms, each 18 by 20 feet, on the first and second floors. There will be a principal's office on the first floor and a small recitation room over it on the second floor. The third floor will be left unfinished and is so planned that it can easily be cut up into four more classrooms. The basement is high and well lighted, and will be used in the future as a Sloyd room. The exterior of the new building will be of red brick with granite and cement trimmings. The roof will be covered with slate. The new building will be heated by direct steam sent into the new building through an underground duct from the present central heating plant in the laundry building. Each classroom will be ventilated through galvanized iron ducts and the air will be kept in motion by means of aspirating coils in the ducts. Additions will be made to the plumbing plant and new fixtures installed.

The morning train yesterday from Providence took 50 members of the Rhode Island Horticultural Society to Kingston for a day's visit to the State Experimental Station connected with Rhode Island College. They were met at the station by representatives of the college and experimental station, and conveyed to the central group of buildings, passing through the experimental farm on the way. Although many of the party had brought luncheon, they found on arrival at Watson House that a clambake awaited them. After the dinner President Howard Edwards of the college spoke in different phases of education, and Dr. D. H. Hartwell, Professor George Adams and Dr. Leon J. Cole spoke of the work on the experimental farm. The company then divided into groups for the purpose of further inspecting the work done at the station, and a demonstration of fruit culture and other branches of the work interested the visitors until they were ready to depart.

A BIRD-FLIGHT FALLACY.

[Everybody's.]

There have been decades of dispute over the value of the hollow bones and the air-sacs in any species of birds. It has been contended that inasmuch as the temperature of bird is higher than that of any other creature, this network of air-chambers, becoming filled with air warmer than the surrounding atmosphere, enables the bird to rise. It is true that the gannet, the pigeon, the pelican, the albatross, and other flying birds are equipped with air-chambers, but the Australian emu, which flies, when at all, with the greatest difficulty, as well as the ostrich, and the apteryx, which cannot fly at all, are also provided with these air-cells and so, too, is the orag-utan! Moreover, notably good fliers—swifts, martins, snipes, the gloss starling, the spotted-flycatcher the wood-wren, and the black-headed bunting, have bones destitute of air, some of them, in fact, being filled with marrow. No fallacy in science has been more difficult to puncture than this air-cell or balloon theory of flight.

NOTICE.

On account of the Town Council of Jamestown refusing to give me a license for either my horse, bus, or electric carriage to transport passengers for pay across Jamestown, I hereby give notice that I shall take all through passengers between Saunderstown and Newport, and the boat fares of 10c. for each ferry only will be charged; thus making it 20c., instead of 25c., between Newport and Saunderstown.

Busses will not stop to take on or let off passengers on the highways of Jamestown, only those holding through tickets between Newport and Saunderstown will be taken on.

My boats are the newest, largest and fastest in commission on any ferry in Narragansett bay, and I earnestly desire enough of the patronage of the public to help me maintain the service I am giving.

Boats leave Commercial wharf on the even hour.

A MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.

Motorman's Presence of Mind Saves the Lives of Children Who Ran on the Car Track.

There was what the spectators call a miraculous escape from death yesterday afternoon at Easton's beach. Four small girls were watching the surf break on the rocks along the walk, when a wave higher than the others came in and partly drenched them. They ran from the rail into the street, directly in front of a car which had just left the beach. Two of the little ones were struck and it is said one was hit twice, but between good luck and the children having enough sense left to get out of the way and the fast work of the motorman they escaped with only a few bruises. The passengers on the electric felt sure that the little ones were as good as dead when they saw them dart in front of the car and it was a great relief to see that they escaped. It must have been a great relief also to the motorman, to whose presence of mind and quick action the children probably owe their lives.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

Mr. William Baird left today for a short trip to New York and Philadelphia.

Miss Ruth Knowles is visiting friends in Providence.

The largest number of cows ever put up at auction on the island was offered for sale yesterday on the Seth Pierce place, near the West ferry, when of a herd of 64 over 40 were sold.

Forty-one recruits for the navy landed here from New York this morning on their way to the Training Station.

The W. H. Knowles place at the East ferry is to be sold at auction tomorrow.

Battleship New Jersey has joined the fleet of war vessels anchored off the east shore, coming from the coaling station and taking a position half way between the Virginia and Rhode Island.

Major W. W. Weatherspoon of Washington has joined his family at their cottage on the north shore, for a month's stay.

Another move was made yesterday in the ferry competition, both lines reducing the through fare from Newport to Saunderstown.

BATTLESHIP TO LEAVE FOR NEW YORK.

Battleship New Jersey came down from the naval coaling station at Bradford early last evening, joining the Rhode Island and Virginia in the bay near the Jamestown shore. The Georgia will finish coaling today and come down the bay, making Rear Admiral Thomas's squadron again complete. Tomorrow the squadron will leave for New York, where the battleships will remain 10 days, giving the crews shore liberty before returning to Cape Cod bay for further practice with the guns. Rear Admiral Thomas, while the ships have been separated, has been visiting his family in this city and will resume command of the squadron before it leaves for New York.

TAXATION OF TANGIBLE PERSONAL PROPERTY.

To the Editor of the News:

In looking over the tax book of the city of Newport for 1907, I could not but be struck by the seeming inequality of the assessment, upon finding that the summer or non-residents are all taxed upon tangible personal property, which as I am informed, is upon household furniture, horses, carriages, automobiles and property of that character, while the residents go free. While the above tax may be allowable under what I am told, is the new law, yet I fail to see upon what ground residents having the same class of property are exempt. If the resident is taxed upon his house as well as the non-resident, why should not his "tangible personal property" be subject to taxation, if he pays no other personal property tax, as well as that of the non-resident? Property is property, and if taxable in the one case why not in the other? Upon what theory the assessors assume that houses belonging to residents, assessed for various amounts from $40,000 down, and occupied by their owners, contain no household effects, or that they have nothing in their stables, it is difficult for the writer to imagine. The distinction seems to be unjust, and while it is known that complaints are made by the summer residents of overcharges by irresponsible persons, yet it would seem as if in the principal office of the city government such a discrimination should not be made against them. Why should the non-resident be called upon to do any more than his just share towards the support of the city and the resident escape?

Is it surprising, when a discrimination like this is made against a certain class, that property continues to decline? People will not purchase houses in a place where such inequality exists. They are willing to recognize their proper obligations, but are sensitive to anything that savors of injustice. The non-residents, I understand, already pay more than 50 per cent of the city tax, and as if that were not enough they must now be subjected to another "squeeze." If this new tax is put upon them while the reform government is but a few months old, what may not the unfortunate non-resident expect when the machine is well oiled up and in complete running order? Appeals are already being made for local charities, but if the summer residents are obliged to make a forced contribution at the tax office it should not be surprising if they refuse to respond to other calls, and leave it to the residents, who do not pay their share into the city treasury upon their "tangible personal property," to support the organizations which are seeking aid.

Newport, July 23, 1907.

A NEW BOAT LANDING.

The spile driver is at work at the City wharf driving fender spiles, and it is said that the wharf is to be made a landing place for on of the lines between New York and Fall River. One report has it that the Enterprise line is to stop there Sundays, and another that the new Neptune line is to stop there Sundays. The rumors do not make the wharf a regular stopping place for the line, but only for the rush business coming up Saturday night. There will probably be an official notice when the boats are about to stop there. Some one is paying for the driving of the spiles, which would be needed only by big boats, the present arrangement being sufficient for the ordinary use of the wharf.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—The weekly Boston excursion train is due tomorrow.

—Fargo Marvin is discharging coal for the Almy Coal Company.

—Schooners Eliza Jane and Maude Gertrude are out for overhauling.

—Mr. John F. Fortune of Brooklyn is visiting Mr. D. J. McCarty on Green street.

—Emmanuel Church Sunday School held its annual picnic at Island Park today. The attendance was large.

—Mr. P. J. Hedley, of Hedley & Lyon, Boston, is on a visit here. The Gloucester men remember him for his good work in the box when he pitched for the Pioneers of Gloucester.

—People who are to attend the picnic of the United Congregational Church tomorrow will particularly notice the advertised time for the boat to leave.

—The assassin who shot a rich Armenian in New York Monday is reported to have previously demanded, upon penalty of death, $25,000 from Mr. Bedros Kazanjian, formerly of this city.

—Arrivals at the United States Hotel include Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Wicks, Hudson Heights, N. J.; L. B. Dow, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Ellison, Newark, N. J., and N. Richardson, Gloucester, Mass.

—There is talk along the line about the probability of a daily excursion train from Boston during that city's Old Home Week. It is said that the arrangements depends upon the patronage of the regular excursion tomorrow.

—L. C. McEnery and S. B. Reynolds of New York, C. G. Cole of Clifton, Ariz., J. H. Klein, U. S. N., L. E. Bratton, U. S. N., Mr. and Mrs. J. Hadley of Worcester and L. N. Perrault of Waterbury are registered at the Perry House.

—Torpedo boat Stiletto, while going up the bay this morning for her regular torpedo practice, ran aground on Bishop's rock, just above the Training Station. The boat lies in an easy position, and will be floated, it is expected, without serious damage.

—There was a vehicular collision in front of Miss Tobin's on Washington square this morning, between a man in an automobile and a man on a bicycle. The automobile was seen to be on top of the bicycle, and of course the latter had the worst of it. Neither of the men were hurt.

—The Fort Adams Band gave the usual Tuesday evening concert on the Mall to the usual large and noisy crowd. There seemed to be fully as much noise as usual until 9 o'clock, when the bell of the Second Baptist Church began ringing, and then there was more than usual. It seems a little incongruous for the city to pay for a band concert and then pay a bell ringer to drown out the music of the band.

—Yesterday there was a rescue at the beach. Mr. Robert J. Cunningham a well known musician, went bathing, and when he had sported about for a while his trunks fell down and so found him about the legs that he was helpless. It was right here that the amateur life saving service, in the persons of P. J. and J. E. Sullivan, came up and rescued him. He was not even exhausted, but he might have been if he had not been rescued.

—A. O. D. Taylor has rented for a term of years to Captain Willis C. Metcalf, U. S. A., the house at 54 Washington street, formerly known as the Hunter house, with grounds running to the waters of the inner harbor. The rental is made for the owners, John R. Storer, Frank Storer and Miss Agnes Storer. Captain Metcalf has been detached from Fort Adams and with his family will take possession of the Storer house immediately.

STEAMERS REPORTED.

SIASCONSET, Mass., July 24.—Steamer President Lincoln from Hamburg, Boulogne and Plymouth from New York, was in wireless communication with the station here when 40 miles east of Nantucket lightship at 10 o'clock this morning. She will probably dock about 7:30 o'clock Thursday morning.

SABLE ISLAND, Nova Scotia, July 24.—Steamer Republic, from Liverpool and Queenstown for Boston, was in wireless communication with the Marconi station here when 90 miles southeast of this point, at 5:20 o'clock this morning.

BIGGEST IN CITY'S HISTORY.

Five Blocks and Many Separate Buildings Burned in Victoria.

VICTORIA, British Columbia, July 24.—The greatest fire in Victoria's history occurred last evening, destroying five blocks and many detached buildings. Starting in the unused boiler room of the defunct Albion works, the fire wiped out the shacks of the Tenderloin, bound by Herald and Chatham streets to Government street, and was carried in a swirl of flying embers from block to block until five blocks had been wiped out. From Store street to Quadra, four blocks eastward, and between Herald and Chatham and Pioneer streets, scarcely anything escaped, and beyond teh flying embers carried the fire on to another block, a number of scattered fires starting at distances of several hundred yards from each other.

Firemen, aide by the soldiers of the garrison and a host of volunteers, fought desperately, pulling down many buildings in the path of the fire, which was eventually brought under control at 7 o'clock. The loss is estimated at $250,000.

COMING TO SEE ROOSEVELT.

Hague Korean Delegates on Way to This Country, to Explain Matters.

LONDON, July 24.—Two members of the Korean delegation which was refused recognition by The Hague conference, Yi Tjyongoni and Prince Yi Tjing Chi, left Southampton today, on board steamer Majestic, for New York. In an interview Yi Tjyongoni said "I shall travel direct to Washington, where I hope to see President Roosevelt. It is my intention to show America that Japan made its treaty of November, 1905, without the consent of the emperor of Korea or the cabinet and that Korea never gave up her independence or consented to the Japanese protectorate."

The two Koreans propose to visit the principal cities of the United States before returning to London. They have not talked with any government officials here.

THE MAKING OF GLUE.

Not a Definite Organic Substance But the Product of Several Transformations.

[Wood Craft.]

Glue is not a definite, positive organic substance, as most people suppose. Chemists tell us that glue does not pre-exist in any animal organism except under abnormal conditions—as in disease—but is the product of several transformations.

The first transformation takes place in drying the hide. If a green hide is boiled after being prepared in exactly the same manner by liming, etc., while it is yet green, an entirely different product of less consistency is secured than by drying the hide after liming and then boiling.

The second transformation seems to take place in boiling the material, probably from action of the heat. The third transformation occurs in the drying of the jelly secured in the boiling operation.

Still another transformation occurs in the drying of this jelly into actual glue, and this series of changes does not end here, for glue dissolved in water and again boiled sufficiently long loses its form once more and will not gelatinize, but will remain in liquid form.

Glue-yielding substances are produced by the animal economy from protoine bodies, albumen, fibrine and caseine. The impossibility of preserving for any length of time the stock from which glue is made renders it necessary to adopt some system in choosing and preserving it until sufficient quantities are collected without fermentation or decomposition. Hence the refuse from tanneries consisting of the clippings of hides, ear and tail pieces of ox, calf and sheep, and from skins of other animals are preferred, because they can be dressed with lime, which removes the hair and acts as an antiseptic.

The ordinary hone stock glue is made from the larger bones of cattle and horn piths, collected from different sources. A large quantity of waste bones accumulated in the preparation of tinned provisions. If these have not been overheated and are in good condition a considerable amount of glue can be obtained from them. The bones from the head, ribs and feet give a better yield than those of the thigs and legs.

There is also the hoof glue, which is made from the hoofs of different animals. Then there is glue made from sinews and leshings, and also a grade known as rabbit glue made from the skins of hares and rabbits. This glue makes a good water test, but should never be used to cement a belt. There is a large quantity of this glue made in this country, and a person not very familiar with it could easily be deceived.

The age of animals yielding glue stock has an important influence on the product. While from younger animals the production, as a rule, is of a lighter color, more abundant and more easily obtained, it contains more chondrin, so that for solutions of equal strength those from mature animals will be found to be of the greater consistency and the glue more solid.

Then, again, there is what is known as the pig stock glue, which is made from the feet of hogs. Next comes the fish glue or isinglass. Its varieties are numerous, and a through knowledge of them can only be obtained when one is personally acquainted with the different factories and stock from which they are made.

The best of this material, however, is made from the sounds or air bladders of the different species of fish. The air bladders of the common sturgeon and other fish caught in northerly climates make the best.

THE D. L. D. GRANGER.

Launching of New Sloop Built by Veteran Ship Carpenter and Named for Congressman.

There was a launching yesterday afternoon on the Point which reminded one of old times. The veteran boat builder and ship carpenter, Theodore H. Bishop, had been busy in his leisure time for the past two years in the old St. John's reading room, and had turned out a handsome sloop which he had rigged and ready to sail, at the end of Poplar street when the launching took place. All the men from the repair shops were on hand. So were Congressman D. L. D. Granger, Aldermen Bovle, ex-Alderman Hendrickson and many others. The boat was appropriately launched and every one had a good time. Congressman Granger, for whom the boat is named, made a brief address and everyone congratulated Mr. Bishop on turning out such a good looking craft.

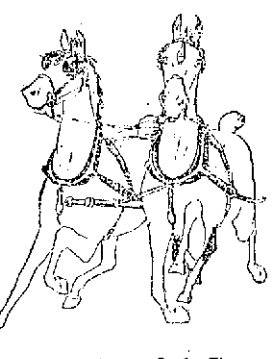

The new sloop D. L. D. Granger is 25 feet over all, 20 feet 6 inches on the water line, 12 feet, 4 inches beam and draws about three feet. She has a cabin 12 feet long with 6 feet standing room, and with a table capacity of 12 persons. The cockpit will accommodate 20. The boat has a jade mast and is fully equipped for a cruiser, having plenty of room. She was laid so that an auxiliary motor may be installed if desired. The boat was given a spin this morning but there was scarcely enough breeze to make her move well.

Mr. Bishop expects to take Congressman Granger to Providence in the boat tomorrow, and when Providence is reached Mr. Granger will present a set of colonial the boat, that being the usual custom when a boat is named after a person.

TO OVERHAUL TENNESSEE AND WASHINGTON.

Cruisers Tennessee and Washington, comprising the special service squadron under Rear Admiral Charles H. Stockton, which is now returning from its visit to France, will go immediately on their arrival in American waters to the navy yards for inspection and minor repairs, the Tennessee to the Brooklyn navy yard and the Washington to the Boston yard. Both ships were surveyed before they went abroad with a view to being overhauled on their return. The work on neither ship amounts to much, but it is considered necessary in order to maintain the sea-going efficiency of the vessels. It will probably not be necessary to dock the Washington at Brooklyn, as the ship was docked just before going to Europe. The cruisers are destined for service in the Pacific.

PROTECTING CHINA AGAINST WEST.

Japan Said to Be Preparing Manchu Dynasty's Fate.

Steady Armament of Both Countries Alarms Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 24.—The Novoe Vremya today published details of an alleged anti-dynastic movement in southern China, ascribing it to Japanese instigators, who, the paper says, are busily preparing for the Manchu dynasty in China the same fate which has just overtaken the emperor of Korea.

Continuing, the paper says that in contravention to the supplementary provisions of the China-Japanese treaty of 1905, defining the regions where foreigners, including Japanese, shall be permitted to reside, Japanese agents have worked their way into the most remote corners of the empire. The keynote of Japanese intrigue consists in assuring the Chinese that Japan is their protector against the nations of the West, and at the same time reassuring the Westerners that Japan is their vanguard against the Chinese peril.

The apprehensions of the Novoe Vremya regarding the re-opening of the Far Eastern question are fully shared in Russian military circles, where the steady armament of China and Japan is viewed with alarm. This movement is regarded as primarily menacing to the remnant of Russian possessions on the Pacific.

PAPERS MUST PAY PENALTIES.

Moscow, St. Petersburg, Kiev, Kazan and Penza Sheets Fined.

MOSCOW, July 24.—The Vedomosti and the Slovo, two of the most moderate of the Liberal newspapers in this country, again have been heavily fined. Fines have been imposed, also, upon several newspapers published in Kiev, Kazan and Penza, and the Weekly Gazette of the Constitutional Democratic party in St. Petersburg has been fined $500.

YEARS NOT BOUNDED BY TIME.

Cardinal Gibbons in Splendid Health on Seventy-Third Birthday.

WESTMINSTER, Md., July 24.—Cardinal Gibbons, primate of the American hierarchy of the Catholic church, who was 73 years old yesterday celebrated the event quietly at the home of friends here. The cardinal says he is in splendid health.

In commenting on his long life and its work, the cardinal said that a life of usefulness and helpfulness to one's fellowmen is the only life worth living, and with the glorious hope of immortality the measure of one's years is not bounded by time, but endures for ever.

OPIUM ADVANCES IN PRICE.

Unfavorable Crop Conditions in Turkey Cause of Increase.

NEW YORK, July 24. Opium has advanced in price in the local market since the first of June to an extent that is little short of phenomenal. Starting on the date mentioned at $3.50 a pound, duty paid, prices at first advanced gradually, and lately by leaps and bounds, until the present price of $6.50 a pound has been reached.

The advance is due to unfavorable crop conditions in Turkey, the main producing section of the world. Bad weather has reduced the yield of the poppy plants, and estimates of the crop have been cut from time to time until it is now figured that the outturn for this season will amount to only 2,800 cases. Taking this estimate as a basis, the world's visible supply until the next crop is harvested is about 1,500 cases. The normal world's consumption is 6,500 cases annually.

ABOVE TEN-YEAR AVERAGE.

Crop Statistics Compiled for Government Show High Per Cent.

MONTPELIER, Vt., July 24.—More than 55,000 acres of corn have been planted in Vermont for this year's crop, according to statistics compiled for the government. The condition of the crop, the acreage of which is almost as large as last year's record one, is rated in the report at 84 per cent, which is above the ten-year average.

The condition of other crops, according to the same compilation, is as follows: Wheat, 95 per cent; beans, oats, barley and hay, 90 per cent; tobacco, 87 per cent; potatoes, 86 per cent; onions, 82 per cent; apples, 80 per cent, and grapes, 74 per cent.

PEACE OR WAR?

President of United Hatters of America Says Situation Is Serious.

NEW YORK, July 24.—The first general strike in 12 years of the United Hatters of America, involving about 20,000 men throughout the country, is now threatened against the open shop, which the National Fur Felt Hat Manufacturers' Association proposes to introduce. The open shop declaration is contained in a resolution of the manufacturers to abolish the union label.

Conferences between the executive committee of the union and the association, held at the Broadway Central, at which attempts were made to settle the strike, have thus far been futile. The manufacturers have asked for further time, and will make a final decision Friday. A majority of the manufacturers, it is said, are against the use of the union label.

President John A. Moffitt of the United Hatters of America will not predict whether there will be war or peace, but said that the situation is very serious.

It was stated for the union hatters that if the label is discarded the strike will take place August 1.

TO ATTEND AN AMERICAN COLLEGE.

[Broadway Magazine.]

Chinese women who have been educated in America will receive a distinguished recruit when Miss May Liang Cheng, the only daughter of Sir Chentung Liang Cheng, the Chinese Minister to the United States, returns to her native land. Miss Cheng is a particularly bright young woman and has attracted much attention in Washington. It is announced that the piquant little Celestial maiden will be educated in Barnard College, although it is said Wells College, Aurora, N. Y., is a possible candidate for the honor of instilling the ideas of Western civilization in Miss Liang's head.

Wells College is the alma mater of Li Hung Chang's granddaughter, Miss Li, now Mrs. Bien. Miss Cheng is under sweet 16 and dresses in Oriental style, as becomes the daughter of the Chinese representative to this country. She speaks English and has shown marked ability in music. The minister has a summer home in the diplomatic colony at Amherst, Massachusetts, although it is unofficially announced that he will return to China for a period of mourning prescribed by the customs as a mark of respect for his recently deceased mother. In that event he will be succeeded by Liang Tun-Ten, taotai of customs at Tientsin, a Yale graduate, and Miss Liang will be left to complete her education in charge of Mrs Kwai, wife of the secretary of the legation.

BEN PITMAN'S CARVINGS.

The priceless carvings in the Cincinnati home of Ben Pitman, father of shorthand, probably the most artistic collection of the kind in the United States, have been offered to the people of Cincinnati to be preserved in the Lytle Home. Mr. Pitman said he was glad to be informed that the members of the board had absolutely refused to tear down the Lytle Home, which, he declared, would be a terrible piece of vandalism. If the home is preserved, he said, he desired to make an offer of the art decorative features of his home, including his artistic furniture, as a supplement to the generous offer of Mrs. Emery to give the city $50,000 to be used in renovating and maintaining the old home.

He stated that for over 20 years, while he had been a professor in the Art Academy, he had 100 of Cincinnati's talented artist women besides himself, late wife and daughters, at work on the art features of his home, and he believed that no other home in the country possessed the like.

IRON AND STEEL IMPORTS.

[Iron Trade Review.]

Our imports of iron and steel have shown a large increase, growing from 492,000 ton in the fiscal year 1906 to over 750,000 tons in the year just ended. Pig iron imports have been about 575,000 tons, increasing about 300,000 tons over the previous fiscal year, so that they alone account for all the increase in the fiscal year. Structural iron and steel imports show a large decrease, there having been abnormal imports in the fiscal year 1906. Scrap, rails, and hoops—chiefly cotton ties—showed a considerable decrease.

Outside, then, of the heavy imports of pig iron, a purely temporary affair, it can be said that our import and export movement in iron and steel in the past fiscal year has shown no marked variation. This is a 25,000,000 ton country and a variation of 100,000 tons either way in our imports or exports is quite unimportant, unless it furnishes advance evidence of a greater change to be expected. In this instance the variations do not show such evidence.

THE TILFORD WILL.

Displeased with the Marriage of his Son and Daughter, Testator Cuts Them Off with $6,000 Each.

A million and a half dollars will be paid to less than half a dozen charitable institutions because Charles E. Tilford of the firm of Park & Tilford, displeased with the marriages his son and daughter made, tied up his estate and cut them off with an income of $6,000 each. The estate, outside of that which provides for the income for the children, was left in trust for Mrs. Corinne Tilford, the widow, providing she did not marry. If she married her interest was to cease. Mrs. Tilford died recently.

Mr. Tilford, his friends say, was opposed to having his children marry. His son George, defying his wishes, wed Miss Rita Shelby, a pretty girl, who was a member of the "A Trip to Chinatown" company. Before his death Mr. Tilford was reconciled to his son. He was never estranged from his daughter, though he objected to her marrying. At his death the family believed the estate would be left largely to the son, but this was not done.

The money left in trust for the widow during her lifetime now reverts to the charities designated by Mr. Tilford. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals receives $25,000 and the American Museum of Natural History a similar sum. The residue of the estate in trust for the widow is to be divided equally between the Presbyterian, Mt. Sinai, St. Vincent's and Flower Hospitals, the Home for Incurables, St. John's Guild and the Children's Aid Society.

HAROLD VANDERBILT SAFE.

Arrives at Norfolk in the Trivia After An Uneventful Voyage Down the Chesapeake.

Mr. Harold S. Vanderbilt, as was expected, arrived at Norfolk, Va., yesterday in sloop yacht Trivia. The yacht sailed leisurely into Hampton Roads and dropped anchor off Old Point Comfort, without those on board having any idea that they had been reported "missing."

The voyage of the yacht had been uneventful. The "delay" is accounted for from the fact that young Mr. Vanderbilt "was in no special hurry to get there." He went down the Chesapeake by easy stages, stopping wherever and whenever it was the pleasure of those aboard. He did not think anyone would be looking for him, unless it might be, perhaps, Captain I. W. Crowley, the skipper of the Trivia, whom Mr. Vanderbilt knew would arrive at Norfolk in advance of him. He was surprised to learn that newspaper stories had been printed about his absence.

The first thing Mr. Vanderbilt did after the anchor of the Trivia had been dropped was to go to Norfolk to advise Captain Crowley that the yacht had arrived. Mr. Vanderbilt and his friends are at Norfolk for the purpose of doing the Jamestown Exposition, and this they will set about to do at once.

TO STAND FOR COMMON JUSTICE.

Steel Corporation Fighting Federation of Miners.

Ore Fields Trouble Stirred Up By Professional Organizers.

NEW YORK, July 24.—The strike of the workmen in the ore mines in the Lake Superior fields is receiving the serious attention of the officials of the United States Steel Corporation. William E. Corey, the president, has the handling of the strike under his supervision, and his lieutenant, Thomas F. Cole, president of the Oliver Iron Mining Company, is on the outlook at Duluth and at Two Harbors. Announcement is made that the corporation will stand out for what the officials consider common justice in its fight with the Western Federation of Miners. The organization has outlawed itself, the officers of the corporation hold, in disregarding the terms of its own resolutions before they had been in the hands of President Cole 36 hours.

It is stated that the program adopted is to fight without compromise what is termed the small percentage of men in ore fields who are actually members of the Western Federation. The steel corporation does not believe that its men have any grievance, and point to the fact that only last January an increase of wages was voluntarily granted to the men. Since then, it is said, there has been no complaint from the men, and no trouble was anticipated until the demands of the committee were received.

The whole trouble has been stirred up from the outside by professional organizers, according to the steel officials, who also say that less than 10 per cent of the men became members of the union. These, however, they say, have succeeded in intimidating the rest by marching through the iron country with red flags, burning property and beating men who tried to remain at work.

According to the steel corporation's latest report, 14,393 men were employed at the Lake Superior properties. The shutting down of the mines has already been felt by the men along the ore railroads and on the lake docks. Nearly 17,000 men are employed on the transportation lines of the corporation who may be effected by the strike.

Just what effect the strike will have on the iron and steel situation the trade has not yet figured out. The company has large ore supplies for its present trade, but if the strike is prolonged much embarrassment may be caused by the closing down of navigation.

THREE TRIAL YACHTS PLANNED.

Foremost American Naval Architects to Compete for Defender.

NEW YORK, July 24.—How probable is a race for the America's cup next year may be judged from the fact that already plans are under way to build three yachts for the defense of the trophy. The yachts are to be designed by the three foremost naval architects in America. They will be from the boards of Nat Herreshoff, Henry J. Gielow and William Gardner. The three yachts will compete in trial races, according to the present idea, and the best of the three will be selected to race for the cup.

It is understood that Frank M. Smith, owner of King's cup winner Effort, is behind the Gielow boat; that John R. Hanan and his sons, Addison G. and Wilmer Hanan, are behind the Gardner boat, and that the usual syndicate is behind the Herreshoff boat.

While it is true that there have been no negotiations as yet with respect to a challenge, it has been a well-understood fact, since Sir Thomas Lipton left this country last winter, that he will challenge at the end of the present racing season.

BY OVERHEAD SYSTEM.

New Haven Railroad Out of New York Equipped for Service.

NEW YORK, July 24.—The New Haven railroad has everything in readiness and will now begin the operation of its trains by the new overhead electric system.

For the first week it is said that electricity will be used only on the 11 local trains running between the Grand Central station and New Rochelle. After that the service will be extended to Portchester, and the company hopes to have electric trains running to Stamford by September 1.

BOSTON'S OVERHEAD CHANGE.

Electrical Suburban Service to Be Inaugurated as Soon as Possible.

BOSTON, July 24.—Operation of the New Haven road in Boston suburban service by electricity will be inaugurated "as soon as the change shall become physically and mechanically possible," is the statement today of Vice President Timothy E. Byrnes. The announcement is made in connection with the electrification of the system between New Rochelle and New York, which went into operation this morning.

"We are abolishing grade crossings faster than is required by the state authorities," said Mr. Byrnes. "This process must be completed over the area to be electrified before the motive power is installed, for the overhead wiring is too expensive to be put up twice. Mechanically, also," continued Mr. Byrnes, "we must be sure that the New York experiment is on the right lines. I may promise that the transformation will occur without unreasonable delay."

The vice president went on to say that from a single power house a service could be operated extending about 300 miles.

LEWISTON TO PHILADELPHIA.

Now Possible to Travel from Maine to Pennsylvania by Trolley.

LEWISTON, Me., July 24. A through trolley service between this city and Boston, New York and Philadelphia has been completed within the last few days, by the opening of a new line from Kennebunkport to York Beach. The new link is about 17 miles long.

QUALITY OF PAPER POOR.

Change in Managers of Postal Card Factory and in Government Agent.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—As a result of an investigation, under Postmaster General Meyer's direction, of complaints from all parts of the country regarding the quality of paper used for postal cards, a change has been made in the business managers of the postal card factory at Rumford Falls, Me., and in the government agent at that place.

NO CHANGE IN MANAGEMENT.

New Agent at Rumford Falls, But Same Postal Card Factory Officials.

RUMFORD FALLS, Me., July 24.—In reference to a report from Washington today, to the effect that owing to complaints from all parts of the country as the quality of paper used for postal cards the government agent and the business manager of the factory had been changed, an official of the Oxford Paper Company, which has the contract to furnish all the postal cards for the government, stated that a new government agent, H. T. Zantzinger of Washington had arrived and assumed his duties July 16, but that there had been no change in the management. No information was given out regarding the investigation of the quality of the paper.

RISE OF THREAD DENIED.

American Company Says Report that Price is Ten Cents a Spool is Untrue.

NEW YORK, July 24.—The published reports that the American Thread Company intends to advance the retail price of thread to ten cents a spool were denied today by an officer of the company, who said:

"The report is untrue. This company is not even considering the possibility of an increase. Last May it was obliged, through the great increase in raw material and labor, to make the retail price six cents a spool. We do not anticipate that trade conditions will make any further increase necessary, and should the expenses of manufacture lessen the consumer will undoubtedly get the benefit."

TERMS AGREED UPON.

Russo-Japanese Entente to Be Published Soon in Both Countries.

TOKIO, July 24.—It is understood that the terms of the Russo-Japanese entente were finally agreed upon by the Elder Statesmen yesterday. The entente probably will be published shortly, and simultaneously in both countries. This step will precede the publication of the commercial treaty between Russia and Japan.

NINETY-THREE STILL MISSING.

Few Changes in List of Lost and Saved of Steamer Columbia.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—But few changes have been made in the list of lost and saved of steamer Columbia published yesterday. The steamer officials have been informed that Ohew Mock of Oakland, a Chinese first class traveler, who was reported missing, was among the saved. Miss L. Musser was also among those saved.

The company has announced that the bodies of the victims are being held by the coroner at Eureka pending orders from friends and relatives to have them shipped to this city and Portland. The bodies of Eastern passengers will be sent home by both routes.

A revised list of the passengers shows 108 saved and 77 missing. Of the officers and crew 40 were saved and 16 are missing. This makes a total of 93 unaccounted for.

BANKRUPTCY PETITION FILED.

Home Realty Company's Treasurer Subpoenaed to Appear July 29.

PROVIDENCE, July 24.—A petition in bankruptcy against the Home Realty Company was filed this morning in the office of the clerk of the United States district court. A subpoena was immediately issued by the clerk to the treasurer of the defunct company, notifying him to appear and make answer in behalf of the Home Realty Company on or before July 29. If, after the expiration of five days from that date, no answer is made, the company will be declared bankrupt. The petition was signed by three creditors, whose claims aggregated an amount somewhat over $1,000—double the amount required by Rhode Island law.

WORLD'S LARGEST STRIPPING.

Practically Inexhaustible Coal Bed Opened at Latimer, Pa.

HAZLETON, Pa., July 24.—The Lehigh Valley Coal Company has opened what is believed to be the largest stripping in the world. It is located at Latimer, and the coal is in a solid bed 1,360 feet wide, 30 feet in thickness, and extends from Latimer to Drifton, at least six miles. It is estimated that were the company to take out 500 tons daily it would require 250 years to exhaust the supply.

GET HIS HAIR BACK.

Was Perfectly Bald When He Started to Use Newbro's Herpicide.

Frederick Manaell, Maryland Block, Butte, Montana, bought a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide, April 6, '99, and began to use it for entire baldness. The hair follicles in his scalp were not dead and in 20 days he had hair all over his head. On July 2 he writes, "and today my hair is as thick and luxuriant as any one could wish." Newbro's Herpicide works on an old principle and with a new discovery—destroy the cause and you remove the effect. Herpicide destroys the germ that causes dandruff, falling hair, and finally baldness, so that with the cause gone the effect cannot remain. Stops falling hair at once and a new growth starts. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit Mich.

FEW JAPANESE IN MEXICO.

Immigration Has Subsided, as Climate Is Too Rigorous for Them.

MEXICO CITY, July 24.—According to a report submitted to Japanese Minister Arakwai by the second secretary of legation, the stream of Japanese immigration which has been pouring into the republic during the past two years has considerably subsided.

Investigation has shown that Japanese are unsuited for the work in Mexico, and that the climate in certain parts of the republic is too rigorous for them. Of the thousands who have entered Mexico in the past year, only a comparatively few remain.

Constipation

Baked sweet apples, with some people, bring prompt relief for Constipation. With others, coarse all-wheat bread will have the same effect. Nature undoubtedly has a vegetable remedy to relieve every ailment known to man, if physicians can but find Nature's way to health. And this is strikingly true with regard to Constipation.

The bark of a certain tree in California—Cascara Sagrada—offers a most excellent aid to this end. But, combined with Egyptian Senna, Slippery Elm Bark, Solid Extract of Prunes, etc., this same Cascara bark is given its greatest possible power to correct constipation. A toothsome Candy Tablet, called Lax-ets, is now made at the Dr. Shoop Laboratories, from this ingenious and most effective prescription. Its effect on Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath, Sallow Complexion, etc., is indeed prompt and satisfying.

No griping, no unpleasant after effects are experienced, and Lax-ets are put up in beautiful lithographed metal boxes at 5 cents and 25 cents per box.

UNVEILED BY GRANDSON.

Exercises at Monument to Indiana's War Governor, at Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 23.—The unveiling of a monument to Oliver P. Morton, Indiana's war governor, today, was the occasion of a large gathering of veterans of the Civil war. Among those attending were Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks and General R. B. Brown, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The monument stands at the east entrance to the state house, and was erected at a cost of $10,000. The unveiling was done by the hand of Oliver Perry Morton of Hartford, Conn., a grandson of Governor Morton. Participating in the exercises were 3,000 Civil war veterans and members of the Indiana National Guard. The principal address at the monument was delivered by Governor J. Frank Hanly.

CLOSE FROM FIRST SHOT.

Company K of Second Massachusetts Wins Team Match at Wakefield.

WAKEFIELD, Mass., July 23.—The Connecticut state team of marksmen, which is at the Bay State rifle range here, with teams from Massachusetts, Maine and New Hampshire, for the annual tournament of the New England Military Rifle Association, was on the skirmish field for morning practice today, and engaged in an interesting skirmish run.

Crack company teams from the four states were at the targets for the first of the two company team matches, each at 200 and 500 yards. Other rifle attractions of the forenoon were the Hale match, at 1,000 yards, which was an individual squadded event; the "any" rifle match, which continues through each day of the tournament in unsquadded competition; the individual re-entry match, and the Essex county individual squadded match, at 200 and 500 yards, with rapid fire.

The competition among the pistol experts was in four classes—the rapid fire, the timed fire and slow fire re-entry events, and an individual re-entry event with slow fire.

The company tents match, in which members of the militia from all over New England participated, was a most interesting and closely contested match, from the very first shot that was fired. The mirage and changeable light caused many changes in the team work. It was finally won by Company K of the Second Massachusetts, by a grand total of 310 points.

On the 200-yard range Company D, Second Connecticut, started well, but was led by Company A, Sixth Massachusetts, on a total of 150 points when they reached the 500-yard range.

On the 500-yard range it was expected that Company D, First Maine, would easily finish in the first place, but Company K, Second Massachusetts, quickly forged to the front, leaving the Maine team in fourth place at the end of the shoot.

The winning team, which comes from Holyoke is now the possessor of the First Corps Cadet trophy. Each man on the team was also presented with a silver medal. The teams which finished in the second and third places were given bronze medals.

Excellent individual scores were made by Captain W. E. Patten, Sixth company, Massachusetts coast artillery, and Private H. E. Woodworth, Company K, Second Massachusetts, each of whom shot seven consecutive bulls' eyes at 500 yards.

STRIKE BECOMING DANGEROUS.

Social Democrats Hope to Involve Moscow and Vladimir Region.

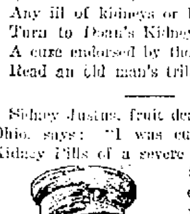

MOSCOW, July 23.—The strike of the men employed in the cotton mills of the Sava Morosoff company, situated at Orickovozac, in Vladimir province, has assumed dangerous proportions. This establishment is the largest of its kind in Russia. By strong agitating, the Social Democrats have succeeded in bringing about sympathetic strikes in several of the big mills in Moscow, and they hope to involve the entire Moscow and Vladimir industrial region, which counts hundreds of thousands of workmen. A total of 10,000 men are now on strike. The movement is accompanied by violent political agitation. Troops were summoned today and had to fire before the crowds would disperse. A large number of persons wer carrested.

AN OLD MAN'S TRIBUTE.

An Ohio Fruit Raiser, 78 Years Old, Cured of a Terrible Case After Ten Years of Suffering.

When suffering daily torture
From backache, rheumatic pain,
Any ill of kidneys or bladder,
Turn to Doan's Kidney Pills.
A cure endorsed by thousands.
Read an old man's tribute.

Sidney Justus, fruit dealer, of Mentor, Ohio, says: "I was cured by Doan's Kidney Pills of a severe case of kidney trouble of eight or ten years' standing. I suffered the most severe backache and other pains in the region of the kidneys. These were especially severe when stooping to lift anything, and often I could hardly straighten my back. The aching was bad in the daytime, but just as bad at night, and I was always lame in the morning. I was bothered with rheumatic pains and dropsical swelling of the feet. The urinary passages were painful, and the secretions were discolored and so free that often I had to rise at night. I felt tired all day. Half a box served to relieve me, and three boxes effected a permanent cure."

SIDNEY JUSTUS.

"A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Justus will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price, fifty cents per box.

TO BE SENT TO PENIKESE.

Case of Leprosy Reported to Boston Board of Health Today.

BOSTON, July 23.—A case of leprosy in one of the hospitals in the city was reported to the city board of health today. The victim is a young woman who formerly was employed as a domestic in Brookline, but who has been under inspection by hospital physicians for about four months. Final determination that her disease was leprosy was reported yesterday, and she will be removed at once to the state retreat on Penikese Island. Dr. S. H. Durgin of the city health board said today, referring to the case: "There is no need for alarm. While the disease is incurable, it is not nearly as infectious as diptheria, and there are many contagions which are much more dangerous to the community. Many states make no provision for the care of leprous patients, and the discovery of one is not recorded, but in Massachusetts we have an admirable system for isolating and caring for them. This removes practically all danger of the transmission of the disease."

Keeps Linen Looking New

Every woman admires the fresh, snowy appearance of new linen, but unless special care is taken with starching, each time the fabric is washed, the beauty soon fades. The one sure way to keep your linen looking new—and actually make it last longer—is to use,

DURYEAS' Gloss Starch

No other starch leaves such a beautiful, clear color or produces such a delicate, subdued, satiny finish, with all the elasticity and pliability one could wish for. It is pure in the strictest sense, no acids entering into its manufacture, and therefore cannot injure the daintiest goods. Unexcelled for men's linen; no cracked or blistered collars, cuffs or shirt bosoms, no yellow streaks—simply satisfaction. Sold in full-weight packages by all grocers.

BEST FOR ALL KINDS OF STARCHING.

JURY HAS FED ON POISON AND LIES.

Darrow Tells Them to Be Guided by Evidence.

Haywood Case One of Orchard, from Beginning to End.

BOISE, Idaho, July 24.—Clarence Darrow began the closing address for the defense to the jury in the Haywood case at 9:05 o'clock this morning. Mr. Darrow impressed the importance of the case upon the 12 men in the boxes, declared the defendant is in Idaho as an alien, brought 1,500 miles from home into a community, on behalf of a jury, which does not view life or industry as do the men accused of the murder of former Governor Steunenberg.

"The defendant in the case and the men in the jail below," declared Mr. Darrow, "have been brought to trial in the home of a man who was killed in the most cowardly, the most brutal, way that any man was ever sent to his death. Many of you men on this jury voted for Governor Steunenberg. One of you had business relations with him, while in the house of another he made his home for two years. You are almost the family circle of the murdered man, and none of you has ever had any community of interest with these defendants.

"Under these circumstances, I can but ask you to lay aside as much passion and prejudice as you can and look at us as if we were one of you. Give us the fair and impartial trial you would give if you had not known the deceased. You men for more than a year past have had your minds poisoned by lies in the local newspapers, but now that you have sat here for more than two months, and have heard the testimony, you know you have been fed upon poison and lies. Lay aside as much as you can of this poisonous stuff. Be guided only by the evidence."

Regarding the possibility of a verdict for manslaughter in the second degree, Mr. Darrow said: "You have that right, gentlemen, but I want to say that whatever else you are I do not believe you are cowards. And I want to say that whatever else Bill Haywood may be, he is not a coward.

"If this man, sitting in his office in Denver, 1,500 miles away, employed an assassin to do this cowardly act, then you ought to hang him. For God's sake, men, do not compromise. He has fought many a fight against the persecutors who are hounding him into this court. He has fought them on the open battlefield, and he is not a coward. If he has to die, he will die as he has lived, with his face to the foe. Bill Haywood is either innocent or guilty. This is a case of Orchard from beginning to end. There is nothing at all left in the evidence without him."

Mr. Darrow here launched into a lengthy, bitter vituperative denunciation for Attorney James H. Hawley, the leading counsel for the state. He assailed him as a hired man, actuated by no other motive than to get the money of the state of Idaho, that he might build another addition to his house.

MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE.

Hampartzoomian Convicted by Grand Jury in Tavshanjian Case.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Hadros Hampartzoomian was arraigned before a coroner's jury today and charged with the murder of H. S. Tavshanjian, a rug importer, Monday. Miss Tridelia Jennery, a dancer, testified that she saw the accused kill his victim. Other witnesses of the tragedy described H. and Hampartzoomian was held for the grand jury, which later found an indictment for murder in the first degree.

PEACE PROPOSAL NOT ACCEPTED

North Carolina Railroad Controversy Nearing a Crisis.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 24.—At noon today it is conservative to say that the developments in the railroad controversy bore a more serious aspect than at any time since the agitation began. The peace proposal made at the instance of Judge Pritchard to the state authorities, that the federal court will not interfere with the judgment of $30,000 which was imposed on the Southern railway by Judge Long at Raleigh, if the state officials will allow both the Asheville and Raleigh cases to run their courses in the Supreme Court of the United States, has not been accepted by Governor Glenn. The governor has simply taken notice of the proposal by asking if this means that the new rate law will be observed during the pendency of the cases which would nullify Judge Pritchard's injunction.

In the meanwhile District Attorney Holton has been sent for either at the instance of Assistant Attorney General Sanford, who is here, or at the instance of Judge Pritchard, and there is talk of indictments against all persons who show a disposition to impede the progress of the United States court.

AT END OF JOURNEY.

Glidden Trophy Said to Have Been Won by Buffalo Club.

NEW YORK, July 24. The 1,550-mile tour of the American Automobile Association from Cleveland, Ohio, via Chicago to New York, for a trophy offered by Charles J. Glidden for touring qualities displayed by the automobiles ended in Jersey City at noon today. About 50 cars out of the original 70 starters finished. 20 of them with scores approximately perfect. It was stated unofficially that the Buffalo Automobile Club of Buffalo, N. Y., won the Glidden trophy.

The contest between runabouts, driven by H. K. Sheridan of Cleveland and C. S. Smith of Philadelphia, for the Bower trophy, was so close that they may have to have another contest.

SENATE CONFIRMS NOMINATIONS

Public Service Commissioners in First District Acted Upon.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 24. The state senate today confirmed the nominations of the public service commissioners in the first (New York city) district. Consideration of the second (up-state) district nominations was deferred until later.

Expecting final adjournment today of the extraordinary session, the legislature got down to work on the pending bills. The appointment bills agreed upon by the Republican caucus were passed by both houses.

DIGHTON WORKS DESTROYED.

Five One-Story Buildings and Three Houses in Taunton Burned.

TAUNTON, Mass., July 24.—All of the buildings of the Dighton Furnace Works, with the exception of the office and pattern shop, were destroyed by fire early today, as well as three small tenement houses owned by the Mount Hope Finishing Company, causing a total loss estimated at between $50,000 and $60,000.

The cause of the fire has not yet been determined, but it is thought to have been a stray spark from one of the chimneys loosing near the cupola of the main building. By the time the apparatus of the fire department reached the scene, which is four miles from the nearest fire station, the flames had made great headway. The firemen were greatly handicapped in their fight against the fire by the shortage of water, the main in that section being very small.

The destroyed portion of the plant included five one-story wooden buildings of the regulation foundry type. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

The Dighton Furnace Works was one of the oldest stove and furnace establishments in the country. Recently negotiations were opened for its purchase, but it is thought now that the sale will not be consummated on account of today's fire.

HUNGARY ALARMED.

Depredations of Thousands of Gypsies Terrorize Country Districts.

BUDA PEST, July 24.—A long list of murders and other outrages committed recently by nomad gypsy bands at Puszta and elsewhere in Hungary has brought the question of controlling the gypsies again to the front. The alarm arising from this outbreak of crime is widespread, and there is a powerful movement on foot to compel the government finally to solve the problem of the disposition of these 50,000 wanderers in Hungary, whose depredations terrorize the country districts.

Successive governments for a century have made futile efforts to induce the gypsies to settle down and live quietly. A majority of the crimes in Hungary—murders, kidnappings and robberies—are committed by gypsies, and the perpetrators seldom are apprehended.

TAFT TO GO TO ST. LAWRENCE.

Canada May Place Cruiser at Disposal of Secretary of War.

OTTAWA, July 24.—Secretary Taft is expected to pay a visit soon to the St. Lawrence river and gulf. Hon. R. W. Scott, the Canadian secretary of state, is in communication with him regarding the visit. The government, it is expected, will place one of the Dominion cruisers at his disposal.

COAL TO GO UP IN SEPTEMBER.

Retail Price to Be Advanced Twenty-Five Cents in Phiadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, July 24.—The retail prices for coal of all kinds will be raised 25 cents a ton in this city announced as the result of an investigation made by a committee of the local coal exchange. The report of the committee says that the advance is necessitated because wages and salaries have been materially increased, and other items of expense that enter into the conduct of the retail coal have also risen.

FOR LORD CROMER'S SERVICES.

English Premier Presents Royal Message Proposing Special Grant.

LONDON, July 24.—In the House of Commons today Premier Campbell-Bannerman presented a royal message proposing a special grant of $250,000 to Lord Cromer, who recently resigned the post of British agent and consul general in Egypt, in recognition of his services to that country.

William H. K. Redmond, Nationalist, announced his intention of opposing the voting of this sum.

WILL HE BE KILLED MONDAY?

Boston Armenian Receives Death Warning from Revolutionists.

BOSTON, July 24.—Moses H. Cuhevian a wealthy Armenian merchant of this city, asserted today that yesterday he received a postal card bearing a New York postmark, signed "Committee of Revolutions," informing him that he was to be killed like Hovannes S. Tavshanjian, the New York rug importer. The postal card read: "My brother We today have killed H. S. Tavshanjian, and next Monday will kill you You are a millionaire, and you give nothing to our party. Believe me, you die."

The postal was mailed July 22, at 12 o'clock. Mr. Cuhevian said today that when he received the card he thought it was a joke, but when he learned of the assassination of Tavshanjian he felt that the matter was serious. He has not yet decided what he will do with the postal, but will turn it over to either the police or the federal authorities. The message was written in English.

NEW YORK, July 24, Wall Street—The stock market opened firm, with Amalgamated Copper at 92¼, American Locomotive 60¾, American Smelting 117½, Atchison 91, Anaconda 57¾, Baltimore & Ohio 98½, Brooklyn Transit 56½, Canadian 176½, Erie 28, Great Northern preferred 136⅝, Missouri Kansas & Texas 35⅜, Northern Pacific 127, Pennsylvania 123⅜, Reading 104¾, Rock Island 22, St. Paul 134½, Southern Pacific 86⅝ to 87, Union Pacific 141⅜, United States Steel 36½, United States Steel preferred 100¼.

10—Prices of stocks started the day higher than last night, on a moderate volume of business. Earlier declines in the London market were ignored. There were running sales of 6,000 shares of Southern Pacific at 86⅝ and 87, compared with 85⅞ last night. Union Pacific rose 1⅜ and Reading ⅝. After the opening sales Southern Pacific rose 2 over last night. Chicago Great Western preferred sold at a decline of 4.

11—The heavy absorption of Southern Pacific on a rise of 2⅝ had a moderate tonic effect on the general list. Union Pacific was carried up 2¾. Cleveland, C. C. & St. Louis and General Electric 1½, St. Paul, Reading and Sloss Sheffield Steel 1⅛ and Atchison, American Smelting, Pacific Mail, United States Reduction preferred, Central Leather preferred and American Hide & Leather preferred 1. New York Airbrake sold at an advance of 5⅝.

Noon—Money on call unquoted; prime mercantile paper 5½ @ 6 per cent. When the rise in Southern Pacific came to a pause, the whole market halted. That stock was a fraction higher and the general list held firm in sympathy, but trading became dull. Colorado and Southern rose 1⅜. Bonds were steady.

CONTROVERSY OVER A WELL.

Tiverton Men Carry Matter into Court —Private on Trial for Theft of Watch Discharged.

Those who kill time in the district court when it is in session had a whole day of it yesterday, even though it was civil docket day. There was an interesting case from Tiverton, in which two Englishmen, Aston and Ibbottson, were fighting over rights to a well. Ibbottson claimed that Aston had not paid the rental of $1 a year for the right to use the well and so closed it to him. Then Aston broke down the fence, and the pump, according to Ibbottson, and went to law about it, also claiming damages because he had been shut out from the use of the well. It will be noticed that it was a temperate beverage which was under controversy, but all was not temperate in the case. Mr. Sheffield appeared for Mr. Aston and Mr. Nolan for Mr. Ibbottson, a former policeman in Tiverton, and when they had had their last say the court took the case under consideration.

In the afternoon Private John McDermott was tried on a charge of stealing a watch. He did not have the watch on his person, for it was thrown under a table, where it was found. The owner was not present. McDermott was not directly connected with the taking of the watch, though he was in the party when the watch was thrown under the table and he was discharged. He had been in jail a week and he was given a trial at the close of the civil docket, so that if not guilty he might be liberated, as he could not secure bail.

YESTERDAY'S ENTERTAINMENTS

Mrs. J. Mitchell Clark gave an open air reception at "Gray Craig Park" yesterday afternoon, which was attended by a large number of the summer residents. Berger's Hungarian orchestra furnished music during the afternoon. Luncheons were given by Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, Mrs. Elisha Dyer and Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish. Last evening dinners were given at the cottages by Mrs. J. Low Harriman, Mrs. George Gordon King, Mrs. James B. Haggin, Mrs. William G. Roelker and Mrs. J. Laurens Van Alen, and Mrs. Herman Oelrichs gave a small dinner at the Bennett Club.

A TOBACCO PLAYLET.

"The Land of Nicotine" or "The Evolution of Tobacco," a feature of the Dockstader show, is a series of tableaux, songs and dances illustrative of the history and growth of tobacco, chronologically presented and worked out with regard to detail. Beginning with an Indian scene, there are noticed the tepees and wigwams peculiar to the red man, among which are interspersed the swarthy chieftains and their braves. A fight is imminent between two rival tribes and a big war council is held. The chiefs meet, and after parleying decide that too much Indian blood had been spilled in internal dissension. It is thereupon concluded to smoke the pipe of peace, which ceremony is gone through with regard to the actual manner in which Indians used to do it.

Following the Indians is seen a big tobacco plantation, with the weed in full bloom. In the distance are the little log huts of the negroes employed to raise and cultivate the tobacco. In this setting are shown the workers engaged in harvesting the tobacco. Following this is a familiar strain of music and the scene shifts to a Holland setting, and the Hollanders with their bag pipes are seen in a characteristic dance.

The finale is the up-to-date cigarette girls and boys, who go through a series of gyrations and dances. By means of electrical contrivances they light their cigarettes and sing to a kaleidoscopic display of lights, every color of the rainbow being pressed into service to make the combination of lines which results. Twelve electricians are required behind the scenes and in the front of the balcony to secure this effect.

The music for the Tobacco playlet was especially written for the production by Mr. Louis Hirsch, whose musical works are well known throughout the country.

A DAUGHTERS' WHIST PARTY.

The whist party given by William Ellery Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Jenckes on Washington street was one of the most successful ever given in the history of the chapter. There were 23 tables and about a dozen who enjoyed themselves in looking at the beautiful scenery and the beautifully dressed women who gathered about the tables, making a brilliant assemblage. The broad piazzas accommodated about 60 players, the others sitting inside the wide opened windows, where the panorama of the bay, with its view of sailing boats, warships and craft of every description kept the eye constantly employed, while the pretty little park in front of the house was enlivened by groups of children and adults. It was somewhat after 5 o'clock when automobiles and carriages ceased bringing guests and the more democratic cars had also yielded their portion, and the play began. At 5 o'clock ices and cake were served, after which play was resumed for an hour. Miss Lena Kauff took the first prize, a brass candlestick; Miss Ethel Cozzens the second, a vase, and Miss Steere the consolation.

THE ARMY WORM ON THE ISLAND.

Advices from out on the island show that the army worm is on hand, and is doing his work with his usual thoroughness, which means that he leaves only bare ground and stone fences behind. Monday the army was seen near the Two Mile Corner. Yesterday it was out at Edward Almy's place, on Gypsum lane and Union street. It had left its mark behind. If any one has not seen an army of army worms at work, this is a good opportunity. They can certainly do a good job and clean out an oat field or any other kind of a field with a thoroughness which leaves the farmer no cause for complaint about the work not being thoroughly done.

STILL ANOTHER DEFEAT.

The Daily News Team Again Meets the Rudder Club, and Again Goes Down Before Them.

It is sad to relate, but the Rudder Club steered the Daily News nine up against another defeat last night on the Basin lot. The Rudder Club seems to be a trifle too strong for the News team, but there was no occasion for the umpire helping it, as it could do the trick unassisted. It was not unassisted, however, for the umpire rendered valuable aid and was a prime factor in the strikeout record acquired by the Rudder Club's pitcher.

It was intended to print a full score of the game, but the umpire spoiled that by having four put outs in one inning. That would make the score look one-sided; it looks one sided now, but that would make it seem wabbly. It is true that the Daily News batters did wabble, as the twirling of Coffey was altogether too perplexing them. Seventeen strikeouts in eight innings seem pretty strong, but that is what was done. And not a base on balls, was called; the umpire would not stand for that.

There was one double play in the game, and the Daily News team was the victim; Coffey, Messing and Burns were the perpetrators. It should be stated that one outfielder caught a fly. It was a mistake; he was not standing in his position when the ball came out, and the glove did the work. The score:

Innings,	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
Rudder Club,	0	2	0	2	1	0	0	x	—5
Daily News,	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	—0

Ordinarily the second line would not be printed, but if it were not some would ask where the score of the Daily News team was.

Hits—Rudder Club 9; Daily News 4. Errors—Rudder Club 0; Daily News 3. Struck out—By Coffey 17; by Callahan 6. Bases on balls—By Callahan 2. Batteries—Coffey and Gladding; Callahan and Sullivan. Umpire—Knowe.

This evening the clerks of the Torpedo Station and of the New England Steamship Company will play. The former think they have a win on that game when they withdrew from the field, but in ordinary base ball talk that was a lose for them. By agreement made at the time it was called no game, but as it was the nearest they ever came to winning they want to call it a win now.

The Rudder Club is in receipt of challenges for games but its manager, who is a shrewd one, finds that his schedule is full and that no more games can be arranged until after the annual outing.

MANY YACHTS IN ATTENDANCE.

The Novice Finishes First and the Little Rhody and Mayanni Again Lead.

The third day's racing of the Narragansett Bay Yacht Racing Association was held Tuesday with the Washington Park Yacht Club, and again there was a large number of yachts in attendance and good racing. The wind was not quite as strong as on the former days, but there was enough to make good sport. In class P sloops, the Novice, A. L. Sands, again came in first. She has evidently been re-measured for she is given corrected time in the summary. She finished first and was first in corrected time. There were nine starters in the first class. The three leading boats were:

Novice, A. L. Sands,	2:17:39
Little Haste, Thurber,	2:18:13
Wanderer IV, Flint Bros.,	2:20:39

In the 25-foot class Little Rhody again had a walk-over. Her re-measurement has been called for, some of her competitors evidently feeling that she outclasses them, as she apparently does. Mr. Crawford's Hawk was again second, and Mr. Powell's Theresa third. There were six boats in this class and the three leaders were:

Little Rhody, Tillinghast,	2:36:53
Hawk, H. B. Crawford,	2:42:14
Theresa, S. Powel,	2:42:1[illegible]

In the 21-foot class the Jamestown boats lost their record of being the only boats to start for there was an outsider, Milady, but she was last when the finish came. No corrected time is given in this class, as Milady had not been measured. Mayanni, Mr. Dodge, was again first with Ondawah, Mr. Woodward, second. Bonito, Mr. Hirst, seems to have taken a day off from racing. The actual times in this class are:

Mayanni, Karl Dodge,	1:46:45
Ondawah, D. Woodward,	1:47:29
Milady, F. C. Pierce,	1:53:01

Tomorrow the boats race at Fall River and the day after at Newport.

THE WORK FOR TUBERCULOSIS PATIENTS.

Most Newporters do not realize the dangers of contagion from consumptives. As a result there are about two new cases of the disease every week, a large number of them caught from incurables, for whom at present the city has provided no home. The Board of Health has strongly recommended that the city establish such a home, and until this is done new cases will be constantly added to the present number.

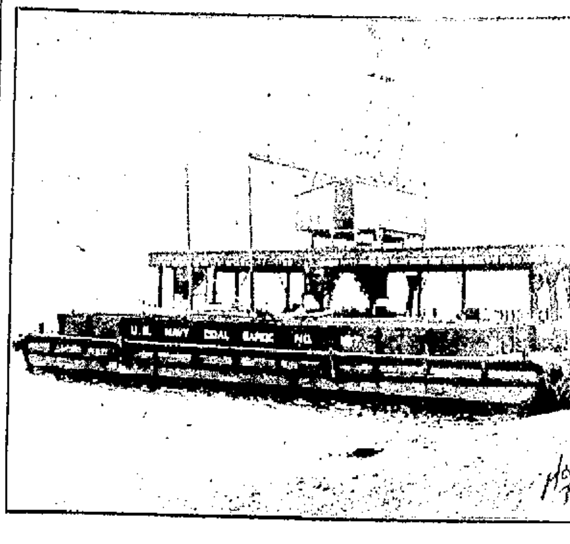

The Newport Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis has under its charge today 18 cases in sanatoria and 67 under observation in Newport. The contributions so far received are only one-fifth of the amount which will be required to carry on the coming year's work, and unless a more general response is made by the public it will be impossible for the Association to take care of all the poor consumptives needing aid, which means that they will in turn spread the disease to others. The Association last year drew heavily on its funds, but as there are many years of work still to be done, unless more contributions are received its fund will be exhausted before the necessary work is completed. Additional contributions have been received as follows:

TAKING A RISK.

[Rhode Island Advertiser.]

Yes, a retail business can be successful without newspaper advertising. Park & Tilford, the well-known grocer, of New York City, have proved it. Yet after more than 60 years of success without newspaper advertising, the firm has taken it up because there is one member of the firm who believes that successful as they have been advertising would have made their success far greater. Perhaps you are a Park & Tilford — perhaps you can build up a business that will be the envy of your competitors without paying one cent for newspaper space but you are taking an awful chance if you start out with this idea.

AN ECLIPSE OF THE MOON.

Second Visible This Year—Phenomenon to Last Nearly Four Hours from Beginning of Darkening.

There will be a partial eclipse of the moon tonight, which will be the second this year and will be visible here. The schedule for the eclipse as prepared by the astronomers is as follows: Moon enters penumbra, 8:59 p. m.; moon enters shadow, 10:04 p. m.; middle of eclipse, 11:22 p. m.; moon leaves shadow, 12:41 a. m.; moon leave penumbra, 1:46 a. m. It will be seen that the hours are quite convenient for observing the first half of the eclipse.

At one minute before 9 o'clock in the evening (eastern time) the edge of the moon will begin to darken slightly; at four minutes past 10 the satellite will begin to enter the earth's shadow, and from this time until 22 minutes past 11 the shadow will be seen to creep further and further over the moon's face. At the time of greatest darkening the appearance will be as at A, in the accompanying cut; at this time the moon will begin to leave the shadow; at 41 minutes past 12 it will completely emerge and the eclipse will be over.

Showing passage of the moon through the earth's shadow during the eclipse this evening.

MIDDLETOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

At the regular meeting of Aquidneck Grange this week the young women will have charge of the lecturer's hour and one of the features of the evening's entertainment will be a short play by seven young men and seven young women.

Mrs. Sidney R. Johnson will go to Boston early in August, to remain four years, to be near her daughter, Miss Anita Johnson, who will attend college there. Mr. William P. Sayer has rented Mrs. Johnson's cottage for a term of years and will move as soon as Mrs. Johnson vacates her home.

Mrs. Legate and Miss Alice Legate, who have been visiting relatives and friends out of town, have returned to their home on Green End avenue.

Rev. John T. Huntington, with guests is at his Indian Avenue cottage for the months of July and August.

SAVES A CHILD FROM DROWNING.

The much abused Oil Trust did a good act yesterday. It was done by proxy, through its representative here, Mr. David Davis. He was passing the Ann Street pier in a boat, when he saw a small girl fall into the water. He did not hesitate, but in he went just as he was. He picked her up and landed her on the pier. Then she ran home, pretty wet, but happy to be on dry land once more. Mr. Davis continued about his business in his wet clothes, which in the atmospheric conditions that existed yesterday were not as inconvenient as they would have been on a cold day.

AMERICAN TOURISTS.

[Booth Tarkington in Everybody's.]

Tourists who do their touring abroad in an automobile escape contempt; they are not called "tourists," but "automobilists," or "motorists." (N. B. It is not absolutely necessary to have an automobile for this; often the clothes alone will suffice.) That is the only escape; for it is only in guide-books and railway posters that he escapes the adjective damnatory. He is called "odious," "horrid," "low," etc. In this connection, one of the strangest things in the world is the inflection with which some of our countrymen speak the word "American," as if it meant something unpleasant or grotesque; and those who so use it are not always expatriates.

Half a dozen Americans stand at one end of an aisle of Notre Dame in Paris, another half dozen at the other end. The two parties exchange glances of hostility at first sight.

Says a lady of the first half dozen: "The place is spoiled. One can never come here without finding a lot of Americans!"

Says a lady of the second half dozen: with a shiver: "Let us go. Here come a lot of Americans!"

QUEENS TALLER THAN KINGS.

[Tit-Bits.]

It is a curious fact that at this time nearly all the sovereigns of Europe are shorter than their consorts. For example, King Edward is an inch shorter than Queen Alexandra. [illegible] Nicholas II looks [illegible] side of the Czarina [illegible] a trifle shorter than the [illegible] press and, for this reason, always [illegible] sits that he shall sit down when they are photographed [illegible]. The King of Italy hardly reaches to the shoulder of Queen Helena; Queen [illegible] of Portugal is a little taller than Don Carlos; and Alfonso of Spain is half a head shorter than Queen Victoria Eugenie. In fact, the King of Norway and the Prince of Montenegro are the only two rulers who are very much taller than their wives.

GOVERNMENT TROOPS AT HEAD.

Detachments of Coast Artillery from Forts Greble and Adams in Providence Military Parade.

A detachment of coast artillery from Forts Greble and Adams, at the mouth of Narragansett bay, will head the military parade in Providence on Military day during Old Home Week. Information just received by Lieutenant Colonel Warfield, assistant adjutant general, who has been negotiating with the government authorities to this end, brings the news that his efforts have been successful and that the arrangements proposed for taking care of the government troops are satisfactory to the federal officials.

Major Brooks, post commandant at Fort Greble, has notified Lieutenant Colonel Warfield that he is pleased to accept his invitation to participate in the parade and that he will send two companies of coast artillery from that fort. The post commandant at Fort Adams has not yet been heard from definitely. The two companies from Fort Greble will be entertained while in Providence by Company B, Captain Archibald C. Matteson, and Company C, Captain Charles F. Tillinghast, of the First Regiment infantry, Rhode Island National Guard, at their armory on North Main street.

Government troops in a military parade always take precedence over the National Guard or state militia, going ahead of everything else in line. Coast artillery detachments are seldom seen in Providence, and this feature of the parade will be one that will appeal strongly to all who are interested in military matters.

Battery A, light artillery, Captain Charles H. Weaver, will appear in the parade with a typical army mule team as a part of its equipment.

THE SPENCER WILL CASE.

Judgment Granting Sister Possession of Estate Reversed by Decision of the French Court.

The French court of appeals yesterday reversed the decision of the lower court in the Spencer will case, thereby setting aside the judgment granting the Princess de Vicovaro possession of the estate in France. Mr. Spencer appears to have left two wills, one dividing his estate equally between his brothers and his sister, and the other leaving all to his sister.

The latest decision, in the opinion of the attorneys for the brothers, destroys any possibility of the princess asking the surrogate's court in New York, where the entire legal contest will now be transferred, to probate the holographic will of 1898 in her favor, on the ground that this will was held to be valid in France. They contend that the princess will be compelled to ask for the probate of this will on its merits as against the will of 1882, which divides the property equally between the brothers and the sister. The brothers are seeking to have this will probated. Nevertheless, there is involved a fine question of law regarding domicile, and many depositions of experts in French law have been taken before Consul General Mason for use in the legal contest in New York.

The brothers will attack the testamentary capacity of Charles Griswold Spencer in 1898, because in 1895 he telegraphed an announcement of his own death from Paris, and later sent a telegram to his brother Lorillard instructing him to commit suicide.

William Augustus Spencer and Lorillard Spencer appealed against the decision of the lower French court which gave their sister, the Princess de Vicovaro, possession of the estate of the late Charles Griswold Spencer, a brother of the two appellants and of the princess. Mr. Spencer died in Paris last November, leaving an estate of about $2,000,000. The brothers set forth that the French courts had no jurisdiction.

ANNOUNCING AN ENGAGEMENT.

Several young people were entertained yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss Madeline Ferris on Wesley street. Before refreshments—sandwiches, fruit punch, ice cream and cake—were served at the "piazza party," each guest was presented with a red rose, about the stem of which an envelope was tied with white satin ribbon. In the envelope was a card bearing the names, "Mr. Frederick Phelps Blint" and "Miss Madeline Ferris." Miss Ferris's engagement being thus announced. The piazza was prettily decorated with cut flowers, many of which were sent from New York, where Mr. Blint is engaged in business.

THE NEW WARSHIP SIGNALS.

Submarine Apparatus to be Installed On Vessels of Assistance in Navigating in a Fog.

Acting Secretary of the Navy Truman H. Newberry and Rear Admiral William S. Cowles, chief of the bureau of equipment, are arranging to install submarine signal apparatus on battleships Connecticut, Virginia, Ohio, Alabama and Maine; also on destroyers Hopkins, Whipple, Worden, Hull and Steward and on many of the colliers. The Alabama was equipped about two years ago for purposes of experiment, and the reports have been so satisfactory that it is now contemplated to equip many of the other vessels.

The apparatus consists of a bell of high pitch, which is immersed in the water to a depth of 25 to 50 feet, and is rung by compressed air or electricity. The sound travels through the water and is picked up by microphones similar to telephone receivers. The use of these bells on ships of the navy is regarded as important, in view of the fact that they have been installed at practically all the lighthouses and on lightships, and have proven of great aid to navigators.

Exhaustive tests of submarine signals made by the British admiralty last November to ascertain their value have demonstrated, it is said, that by means of submarine signals vessels can navigate in a fog with almost as great certainty as in clear weather. Similar signals were tried on submarine torpedo boat Octopus during its tests here last May, and are said to have worked successfully.
